Washington County did it again! For the second year in a row, Washington County's fair queen representative won the state queen title when she competed with other county queens from across the state. Denise Sustrik (center) was crowned by Kelly Thompson (right), last year's queen. First runner Lorrie Sue Robbinson (left) represented Big Knob Grange Fair.

The Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs held the 78th annual convention in conjunction with the Pennsylvania State Showmen's Association. More details on the three-day convention, held in Lancaster, will appear in next week's issue of *Lancaster Farming. Photo by Lou Ann Good.

Questions About BST Raised At Expo

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a two-part series of a report on Bovine Somatotropin (BST) as discussed by several experts at a recent Penn-Jersey Dairy Exposition. Out of the many issues facing the dairy industry as it enters the 1990s, perhaps no other is more significant than the proposed use of biotechnology to increase milk yields. In presenting this series, we are attempting to keep readers as up to date as possible on developments with this issue, as with others.

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — More questions, legal and ethical, were raised this week over the proposed use of the milk-increasing drug, Bovine Somatotropin (BST).

During the third annual Penn-Jersey Dairy Exposition, about 200 dairy farmers, from Pennsylvania and New Jersey, devoted almost an entire day with four guest speakers to discuss the vari-

Former President Carter To Speak At State Holstein Banquet

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — It's been nearly 10 years since former President Jimmy Carter and First Lady Rosalyn made their first trip to Wayne Harpster's Huntingdon Co[illegible]entioning that the dairy busi-dairy farm. Their reason for [illegible]s had been doing rather well ing was to do some leisurely trout fishing in Spruce Creek, a well stocked stream which runs through the center of the Harpster family's 2,500 acres.

Wayne vividly recalls that day in 1979 when the Presidential helicopter landed on one of his cornfields near the creek, "The first thing President Carter talked about was the type of weeds growing in my fields. This really impressed me! I also remember Jim- lately and I quickly replied, 'Yeah, I hope it stays this way!'"

President Carter and Wayne Harpster's meeting that first day was purely accidental. Wayne had no idea the President was coming to fish in Spruce Creek. In order to

Dairy Industry Playing 'Catchup'

ANDY ANDREWS

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — "The dairy industry is playing 'catchup' with the rest of the economy, so the increased prices of milk are necessary, considering how behind the times dairy farmers have been," said James S. Fraher, economist with the Atlantic Dairy Cooperative (ADC) at a meeting of locals in Quarryville Thursday.

The business meeting was attended by more than 140 dairy farmers in the Quarryville, Strasburg, and Paradise areas who belong to ADC. District Q holds a membership of 183 from the two locals.

Officers for 1990 and delegates to represent district Q of the ADC were elected. They are Dale Hershey, president, Strasburg-Paradise local and Kenneth Beiler, vice president. Charles Neff is secretary-treasurer for Strasburg-Paradise. Dave DeLong is president, Quarryville local, and P. Robert Wenger is vice president. Secretary-treasurer for Quarryville local is Donald Herr.

Mike Messick smiles and holds his third and last Farm Show grand champion market steer steady. Messick has reason to smile, as Mr. and Mrs. Bill Campbell (right), of Hoss's Steak and Sea House, paid $11,100 for the top animal. State Agriculture Secretary Boyd Wolff and Mrs. Robert Casey stand in front of the animal in support of the sale. See story Page A-30

Andrews Joins Lancaster Farming

Andy Andrews

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Andy Andrews has joined the staff of Lancaster Farming.

Born in Lancaster County, Andy worked as a summer job hand for a steer farm north of New Holland.

"I grew to appreciate the long, hard hours put into a farm of that sort," Andy said. "I was happy to help in the bailing and silage operations. I also 'pitched in,' as it were, helping to clean the stables and spread manure.

"The man who operated the farm also worked full-time for a local industry. So he got up early and put in an awfully long week." Andy said that the farm experience

Consumers Think Hamburgers Are Not Meat

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

HARRISBURG, (Dauphin Co.)— "People don't really associate their food with the farm," said Ms. Amy Barr, executive director, The Good Housekeeping Institute. "I'm always amazed when people say they don't eat meat, but they eat hamburgers. The consumer often has no comprehension that her food comes from the farm. She only knows we are supposedly abusing animals.

"And the environmental movement is here to stay," Barr declared. "You better not package your product in something that will harm my children's future. We've all heard of acid rain and the ozone layer. Now a recent story in the Wall Street Journal told how cattle manure creates methane that is robbing our earth of oxygen. People are terrified by what they think is happening on our farms."

Speaking at the Pennsylvania Beef Council's annual meeting last Wednesday evening, Barr said the present homemaker uses her purchase activity to make herself heard politically. "America is expressing her value system one purchase at a time. She is not going to buy your product if it doesn't do

Jan. 17, 1990

Movement of ready-to-cook whole fryers was generally fair. Supplies were adequate for current needs. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged to higher at 53-68 cents. Live supplies were adequate with average live weights in a full range of light to heavy. Processing schedules for today were heavy. The trade sentiment was steady. In the parts complex, supplies of cutlets were adequate, whole breasts were short of the active buyer interest, legs and leg quarters ranged adequate to fully adequate, and wings were irregular and ranged from close balance to burdensome.

N.E. Chicken Parts

Jan. 17, 1990

Trucklot buying interest was light to fair and generally less aggressive than earlier. Supplies of boneless-skinless breasts continue to clear well; however, late week interest was lighter and offerings were available for earlier next week. Whole breasts remained in light supply, particularly from Delmarva area. White line run breasts were about adequate at current price levels. Legs and leg quarters were readily available despite 39 to 79 cent retail ads and supplies were slow in clearing. Wings were burdensome and most trades were at lower levels.

National Egg Market

Jan. 17, 1990

The market tone was barely steady and cautious. Egg movement continued sluggish with limited retail promotional activity usually stimulating the best interest. Supplies were for the most part fully adequate with additional product usually readily available. Breaker activity was mixed as several further processors became selective as offerings increased. Plant schedules were uneven as most worked from a hand to mouth basis.

New York Eggs

Jan. 17, 1990

Prices were unchanged. Trade sentiment continued barely steady and cautious. Cartoned egg movement was moderate at best. Distributive movement was mostly slow and disappointing Floor stocks were fully adequate with additional offerings readily available.

CASH GRAINS MIXED. WHEAT PRICES HIGHER AS EXPORT DEMAND IMPROVES. RUSSIA REPORTEDLY HAS TENDERED FOR 525,000 METRIC TONS AND MEXICO 185,000 TONNES. IMPROVED CONDITIONS IN THE HARD RED WINTER WHEAT BELT WILL LIMIT NEW CROP GAINS. CORN PRICES ARE MODERATELY LOWER AS LACK OF ANY NEW EXPORT DEMAND NEWS IS WEIGHING ON PRICES. SOYBEAN PRICES WEAK AS CONTINUED FAVORABLE SOUTH AMERICAN PROSPECTS ARE PRESSURING THE MARKET.

UNITED STATES...MOSTLY DRY WEATHER AND ABOVE-NORMAL TEMPERATURES PREVAILED ACROSS THE NATION DURING THE SECOND WEEK OF THE NEW YEAR. HOWEVER, IN THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST, A STRONG STORM SYSTEM, PACKING HIGH WINDS AND HEAVY PRECIPITATION, CAUSED FLOODING IN SOME AREAS WEST OF THE CASCADES. SNOW COVER WAS STILL SCARCE ON CROPLAND IN THE GREAT PLAINS AND CORN BELT. SOME RAIN FELL IN THE DELTA AND SOUTHEAST. MODERATE TEMPERATURES EASED STRESS TO LIVESTOCK AND PROMOTED EARLY GREENING OF PASTURES WHERE MOISTURE WAS ADEQUATE. WESTERN USSR...UNSEASONABLE WARM WEATHER RETURNS TO DORMANT WINTER GRAINS. AT WEEK'S END, HOWEVER, THE WEATHER TURNED SHARPLY COLDER IN NORTHEASTERN CROP AREAS. NORTHWESTERN AFRICA...SHOWERS CONTINUE OVER WINTER GRAIN AREAS IN ALGERIA AND TUNISIA. EUROPE...BENEFICIAL DRIER WEATHER DEVELOPS IN SECTIONS OF THE IBERIAN PENINSULA. UNSEASONABLE COLD COVERS SECTIONS OF THE BALKANS. SOUTH ASIA...DRIER, WARMER WEATHER RETURNS TO ALL BUT NORTHERMOST WHEAT AREAS. EASTERN ASIA...BENEFICIAL RAIN CONTINUES IN SOUTHERN CHINA. SOUTHEAST ASIA...SEASONABLE RAINS CONTINUE, BUT LOCAL FLOODING OCCURS IN WESTERN MALAYSIA AND THE PHILIPPINES. SOUTH AFRICA...MUCH NEEDED RAIN BRINGS RELIEF TO CORN ADVANCING THROUGH REPRODUCTION. SOUTH AMERICA...IN SOUTH-CENTRAL BRAZIL, MORE HEAVY RAIN FALLS IN THE NORTHER, WHILE DRYNESS PERSISTS IN THE SOUTH. IN ARGENTINA, VARIABLE RAIN HELPS SUMMER CROPS. AUSTRALIA...MUCH NEEDED RAIN RELIEVES MOISTURE STRESS IN EASTERN SUMMER CROP AREAS.

Alfalfa's Triple Crown.

Emerald. Maxim. Funk's G-2852. These hardy alfalfas from Hoffman will place you in the winner's circle with improved yields, exceptional stand longevity, and broad-based disease protection.

Emerald's the yield leader from start-to-finish. It has consistently bested Hoffman trials, while producing 5½ percent better than average yields in New York and Pennsylvania state trials Maxim's a sure bet for exceptional stand longevity. And its two-year production average of 9.6 tons/acre will give you front-running yields.

Funk's G-2852 tops the field with some of the best disease resistance available. Backed by years of research, this newcomer has shown annual yield advantages of ½ ton/acre.

When you're looking for a winning alfalfa yield, call your local Hoffman seed representative. Or call Hoffman Seeds direct for more information about Alfalfa's Triple Crown

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

JAN. 22-28, 1990
Warm January, cold May.

If January 22 is sunny, expect much wind, if clear, propitious all year Jan 22 in the Netherlands, the Elfstedentocht, when skaters skim the frozen canals connecting 11 towns Jan 24, Alacitas in Bolivia, honoring the god of prosperity, Ekeko Robert Burns born Jan 25, 1759, Scotland's most famous poet A thousand thousand knots, a thousand thousand holes a fishing net – Yugoslav riddle

Ask the Old Farmer: What's a glory hole? I think it's a nautical term, but don't know more than that H S , N H

It's a place between decks next to the lazaret and used for storing odds and ends

Home Hints Add a bit of horseradish to pickles to keep them from going soft or moldy

OPINION

"None"-existent

How little is none? This question recently surfaced again when reports that milk samples collected and analyzed for The Center For Science in the Public Interest, a private advocacy group and The Wall Street Journal, showed minuscule levels of contamination by animal medicines.

Certainly, this report is a concern to every dairy farmer. And a reminder again that if you want to stay in the dairy business, you must follow the label on your animal medicines. In addition, you must withhold milk from the market from treated cows until you are absolutely sure no drug residues will show when tested at the plant.

But on the side of the dairy farmer, we must say that today's test equipment can detect certain substances at levels of .08 parts per billion. That's about the equivalent of a single pea in the Astrodome. Modern technology has given us the ability to find something wrong with everything. The doctor has his medical tests; the mechanic his computerized engine diagnostic equipment and the American food consumer has the most stringent regulation and state-of the art testing equipment for dairy herds and dairy veterinary practices in the world.

Of course, any residue of animal medicine in milk is clearly a matter of concern. Yet no responsible person would suggest that we should stop drinking milk because of these reports. We can only hope that parents who know nothing about the milk handling process will not erroneously think milk is not safe for their children. In this case, the health hazard from the little amount of residue found in these milk samples with super-sensitive equipment should be considered "none"-existent.

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin
Lancaster County Agriculture Age

To Exercise Dairy Cows

The importance of turning out the dairy herd each day from stanchion or comfort stalls should not be overlooked. As we expect more production per cow, the stresses are greater, and if not given exercise, more breeding problems will result. Dairy farmers with freestalls have the opportunity of observing heat periods all the time. However, cows that are confined to stalls present a problem with heat detection. There are very few days that the weather is so bad that the milking herd should not be turned out for a few minutes. If the dairyman is alert and observing, cows that are in heat can be observed and bred. Exercise might help the herds with breeding problems.

To Recognize Stress In Farming

Life can become so hectic. . . too much to do. . .on the run. You've been on the tractor or in the barn almost nonstop since sunrise and there's too much on your mind to notice the beautiful sunset. Farming is still full of the best in life. Probably many of the reasons you wanted to be a farmer or live on a farm are the very things you don't pay much attention to anymore.

It's more than machinery or livestock, bills or market fluctuations — it's a way of life which in itself holds much to be desired and appreciated.

We must not let the excessive stress on the farm interfere with our home and family life. Medical research estimates as high as 90% of today's illness and disease is stress related. Farming is one of the most stressful occupations today. We must admit stress before we can deal with it. Most importantly, take time to "smell the flowers," and say to yourself — just for today, I will live through the next twelve hours and not try to tackle all life's problems at once.

To Be Aware Of Hay Quality

Many farmers have an abundance of poor quality hay this year as a result of last year's wet growing season. This poor quality hay will not support high levels of milk production. Therefore, some farmers may be tempted to feed it in generous amounts to non-lactating animals such as dry cows and heifers. According to Glenn Shirk, Extension Dairy Agent, this could be a serious mistake since these dry cows and heifers will be our lactating cows tomorrow.

How well our herds produce in the future and how long cattle remain in the herd will be affected by how well we care for our heifers and dry cows today. Poorer quality forages can be fed to dry cows and heifers without affecting future performance if fed in limited quantities.

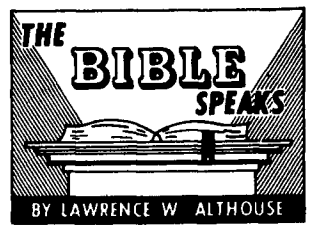
To Prune Shade Trees

Winter is a good time to prune the shade trees on your property because the trees are dormant and won't be affected by the trimming as much. The bare limbs let you see where and how much to prune. And it's easier to reshape tangled and low-hanging branches.

Most trees need thinning when they approach maturity. But, corrective pruning is important when trees are young. While the young tree is growing it's important to remove a branch starting in the wrong position because this branch could change the whole tree structure.

Pruning consists mostly of cuttings that train the tree. . .but it generally involves more and more thinning out of weak and dead wood as the tree matures. There is a saying that "as the brance is bent, so will the tree grow." With pruning, the results are even more drastic, for a limb which is cut will not grow back. So it's important to know the proper methods of pruning before you start. The pruning of dormant shade trees while they are young will determine to a large measure, the beauty and health of a tree in later years.

The Cooperative Extension is an affirmative action, equal opportunity educational institution.



WHEN ARE YOU REALLY FREE?

January 21, 1990

Background Scripture:
John 8:12-59.
Devotional Reading:
John 8:31-36.

A woman encountered one of her next door neighbors, a little girl, striding down the sidewalk. Turning to the woman as she passed, the little girl announced "I'm running away from home!" Before the woman had a chance to respond, the little girl disappeared around the corner. A few minutes later the little girl passed her again headed in the same direction, announcing, "I'm running away from home." Amused, the neighbor lady waited for her to round the corner again and this time she asked, "If you're running away from home, why do you keep going around the block?" Replied the little girl, "Because I'm not allowed to cross the street!"

NEVER IN BONDAGE

I like this story because it is so representative of many of our more "sophisticated" attempts to assert our independence. We are like the teenager who argues with his parents to give him more independence so that he can dress "like all the other kids." On a more sobering level, it is the story of any of us who rebel against something or someone and in the process become subservient to something or someone else. A recent study indicates that lots of people take up smoking to assert their independence. Unfortunately, in a short time they have lost their independence to a nicotine dependency.

So, when are we really free?

Often, when we are enslaved by something, we persist with the illusion that we are free. This is what Jesus is referring to in John 8:32 when he says: "...you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free." The response from his listeners is indignant: "We are dependents of Abraham, and have never been in bondage to anyone. How is that you say, 'You will be made free'?" This is a very strange response when you consider that the people of Israel had been in bondage to the Egyptian Pharaoh, to Assyria, to Babylonia, to the Hellenists, and were currently in bondage to Rome. Perhaps they meant that, although politically they had been in bondage, their spirits never were.

CLAIMS OR DEEDS

Jesus doesn't buy that bit of reasoning: "Truly, truly, I say to you, everyone who commits sin is a slave to sin" (8:34). They are in bondage because they are slaves to their sin. It rules them; they do not rule it. Although they think they are free to do what they want, it is really their sin that calls the shots. "If God were your Father, you would love me..."

Just as the Pharisees' study of the scriptures had not enabled them to recognize Jesus as the Christ, so the people who claimed to be heirs to Abraham were no more understanding and receptive. We may wonder at their lack of perceptivity, but the real relevance of their story for us has to do with our own receptivity today. As these people claimed Abraham to be their father, so we claim Jesus to be our Lord and Savior. But the question is not what do we claim, but what do we do?

PLANT MORE MILK.

More milk per acre means more profit per acre, and W-L Alfalfas have proven their advantage - in milk and in dollars.

For example, WL317 produced 148 pounds of milk per acre over the top competitors in recent tests conducted by W-L Research. The results were derived from a program that calculates milk production based of forage quality. These tests clearly show that, pound for pound, it means more to a dairyman to plant higher quality alfalfa with high yields, than to plant a high-yielding alfalfa with lower quality.

The potential dollars per acre advantage using W-L Alfalfa came in at $92 greater milk yield per acre over the top competing varieties. And, that milk per acre value advantage with W-L Alfalfa adds up to greater profitability.

Time after time, top producers have selected W-L Alfalfa varieties that reward them with high quality, low cost feed.

It all adds up to more milk – and more profit – per acre.

Plant W-L Alfalfas.

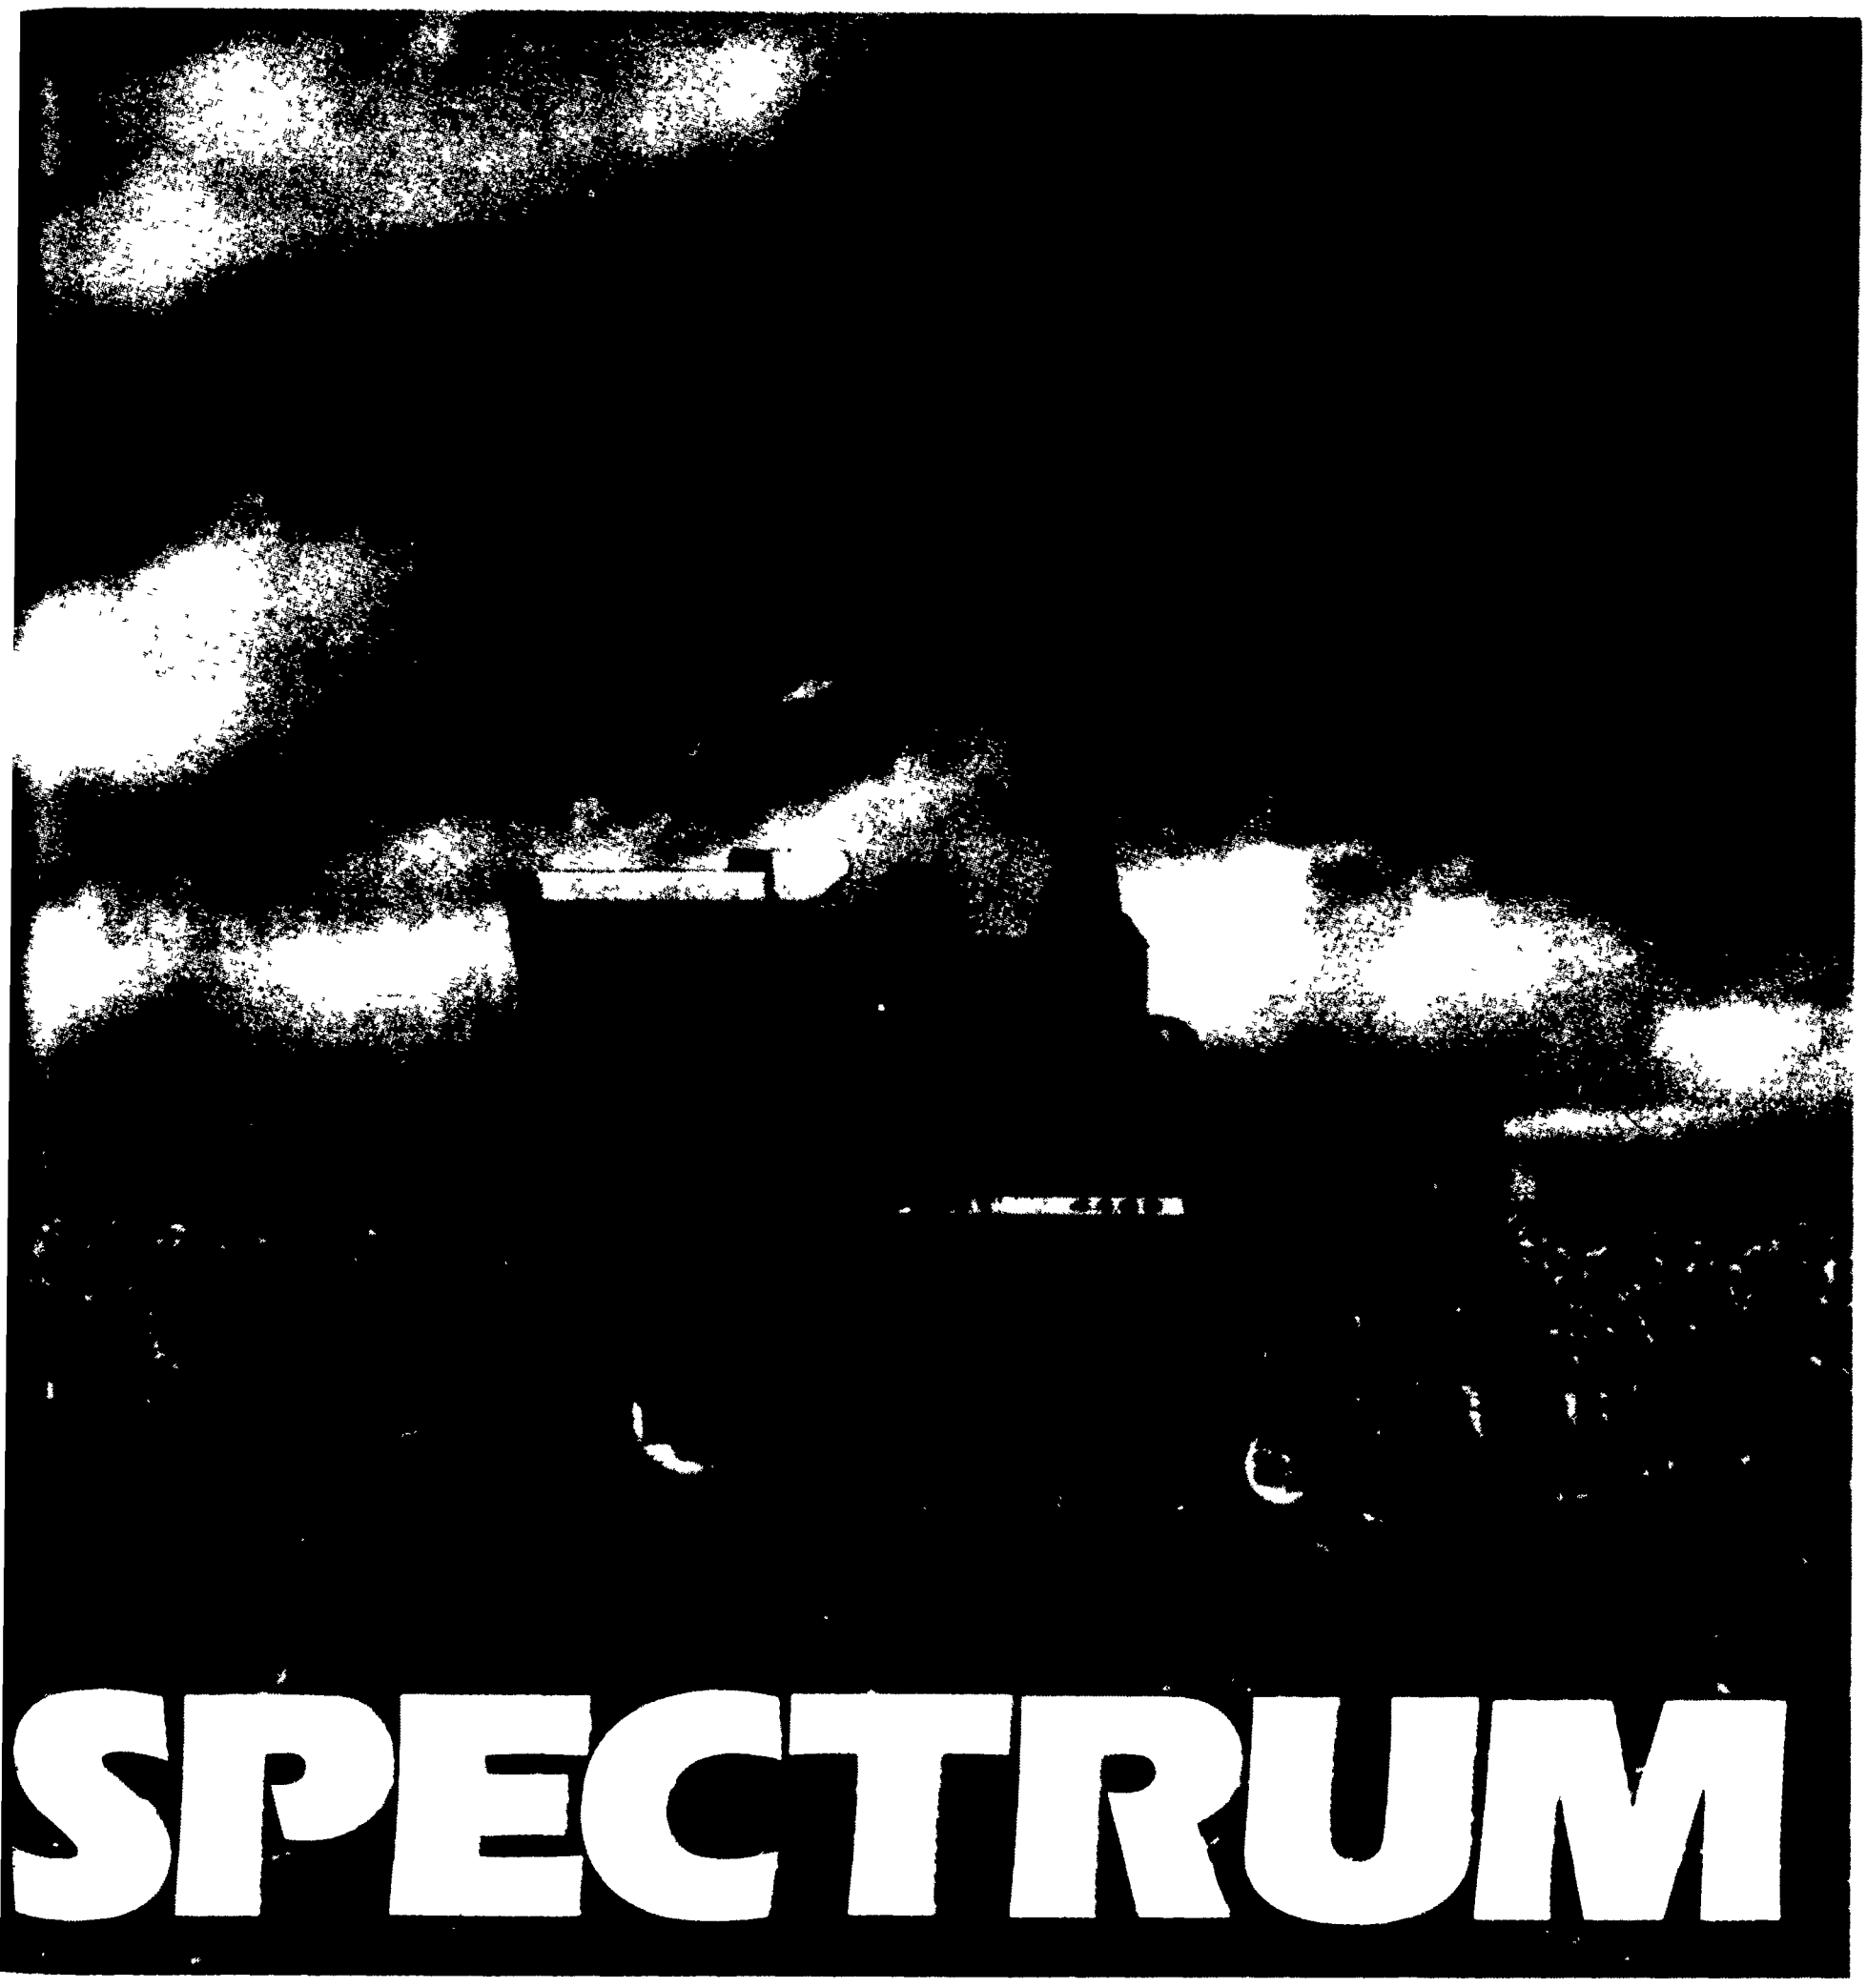
COUNTER® CONTROLS MORE MAJOR CORN PESTS FOR HIGHEST YIELD POTENTIAL.

COUNTER® systemic insecticide-nematicide controls more major corn pests than any other insecticide. Nearly twice as many as some products. And that's critical when you consider the complex of pests that can attack your corn crop. You can't afford to miss an important part of your total insect control.

BROADEST SPECTRUM CONTROL

For more than 10 years, COUNTER has been the undisputed leader in rootworm control. But it also controls a broad spectrum of other pests, including wireworms, white grubs, nematodes and other insects that can attack your crop and reduce yields. More major corn pests than any other product. And COUNTER gives you guaranteed cutworm protection.*



HIGHER YIELDS

The greater protection of COUNTER gets your corn off to a fast, healthy start, with stronger, more developed root systems. And that means your crop gets the moisture and nutrients necessary for the best possible yield.

In fact, National Corn Growers Association yield winners have used COUNTER 2-to-1 over the next corn soil insecticide. They must be on to something.

CONSISTENT PERFORMANCE

Tests by major universities in top corn-producing states continue to prove that, applied banded or in-furrow, COUNTER consistently outperforms all other corn soil insecticides by a wide margin. And it delivers outstanding control of corn pests, regardless of years of continuous use. So, you can start with COUNTER and stay with COUNTER. There's no need to periodically take chances with less reliable or unproven products.

Don't risk a performance gap in your total insect control. Get proven, broad-spectrum control, the highest possible yields, and consistent performance. Protect your crop and your investment. With COUNTER insecticide.

BY DICK BARTH
General Manager, PA DHIA

Waste not, want not. It's an old adage often learned at mother's or father's knee. But if you look around today it seems to have fallen out of favor: landfills are full to overflowing; defense spending is so high social services cannot be maintained; and precious water supplies go down the car wash drain quicker than they can be replenished. Disturbing features in a land of plenty, and if you believe the adage is true, then you can also believe we will be left wanting for land, social services, and water.

And You. DHIA?

We are also in this fix because of the inefficiencies that are caused by the local and state association federated structure. Let me give you a specific example. Local associations are required to file 3 or 4 different types of tax returns each year: a federal 990 report, a state report, and withholding forms. Our 54 local DHI associations are filing at least 160 separate reports a year, some of them inaccurately. When errors are made and caught, the state association is often called on to help correct them. That takes staff time which costs members in dues money.

Please don't misunderstand. I'm not pointing fingers to blame anyone. There are a lot of caring people serving local associations who are trying to do the best job possible, but in some situations there is not enough time or experience at the local level to cope with ever-changing tax reporting requirements.

What's the Solution?

The state association is required to file these same reports. If separate local associations were recognized and merged into a single statewide association with direct members, only one set of forms would be filed for the association. Consequently, the cost of duplication for reporting would go down dramatically.

Similar situations exist throughout our federated system wherever local associations share administrative responsibilities with the state association. Functions such as employee benefits administration, billing for services, and hiring and training supervisors all require a duplication of effort that takes time, costs money, and wastes resources. That's one of the reasons we are wanting for additional resources today to help us provide better, more efficient services for members.

Reorganization will eliminate many of these areas of duplication so that the financial resources going into the system will not be wasted. It's a necessary step in order for members to avoid being caught wanting DHIA services in the future. Waste not, want not.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's this week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Adult Ag Workshops Focus On Penn Manor's Changing Needs

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MILLERSVILLE (Lancaster Co.) —

"Ten years ago the Penn Manor School district was 75 percent rural and 25 percent suburban," said Gus Birchler who has been teaching ag at the school for 21 years. "Today I'd say the area is probably 60 percent rural and 40 percent suburban."

With these statistics in mind, Birchler and Carol Fay, another FFA teacher at the school, took a long look at what these shifts in population are doing to the community.

Birchler said, "The population isn't divided into rural and suburban sections. Sprawling developments have broken up pure ag areas."

Farmers now need to deal with neighbors complaining about odors, farm traffic, and high nitrates in the water.

Fay said, "This creates a different set of problems than farmers traditionally faced."

Fay studied ways the FFA adult farmer program could best serve the community and came up with a list of evening workshops.

To attract more than farmers to the workshops, she changed the name to Penn Manor adult agricultural education program.

Water testing

Since many in the community can not drink water that tests high in nitrates, Fay came up with a water testing and solution program.

Residents are to bring a water sample to the Marticville Middle School on January 30 at 7:00 p.m. (for those who can't attend the session, water samples can be delivered earlier in the day to the ag department). Martin's Water Systems in Myerstown will test it for pH, nitrates, and bacteria at the reduced price of $19.

At the session, Glenn Shirk, county dairy agent, will speak about dairy management and water sampling. On February 22, water sample results will be returned and suggestions on solving water problems will be discussed.

Also at this meeting, farmers should bring a soil and manure sample for nitrogen testing. Leon Ressler will discuss balancing manure production and crop needs.

Pesticide licensing

In response to a survey that the school's ag department conducted, Fay found a need for weed control education. She said, "In the last five years, new weeds have appeared in the area. Several varieties are resistent to traditional sprays."

On January 18, John Yocum, extension agent, explained weed control in field crops. Attendees at the workshop earned four core credits toward pesticide licensing.

Another workshop, "Pesticide Update," scheduled for March 6, will count for four more core credits. This workshop will be taught by Mike Fleming of American Cyanamid.

Gus Birchler, who heads the Penn Manor FFA department and Carol Fay, FFA teacher, plan adult workshops to meet the changing needs that urban sprawl has brought to the community.

Other workshops

Tim Markovitz of Pioneer will teach "Field Crop Managment (tillage, fertility, and how a corn plant grows), at a workshop on January 22 at 7 p.m.

Some other workshops scheduled include "New Technologies from Monsanto (BST, PST, genetic engineering and other new ag technology) — February 8.

On spouse's night out, basket weaving will be taught. Cost is $15 to cover materials.

On March 13, Larry Yeager, area marketing agent for the Penn State Extension Service , will speak on marketing alternatives.

Interested in growing vegetables commercially? Bruce Hellerick, extension agent, will talk about getting started, selecting, growing, managing and marketing the products.

In the early '80s, FFA enrollment was so high at Penn Manor High School that teachers no longer had time to continue the adult farmer's program. Now Fay is devoting time to making workshops relevant to the needs of the community.

The workshops are not limited to farmers. Fay hopes many community members will be attracted to the nine workshops.

All workshops will be held at the Marticville Middle School, Frogtown Rd., Millersville.

For information or to make reservations, call Carol Fay at (717) 872-9520 or write to Penn Manor High School Ag Dept., East Cottage Ave., Millersville, PA 17551.

Dairy Industry Playing 'Catchup'

Fraher spoke about the optimistic outlook ADC holds for dairy manufacturers and marketers for 1990.

"Really exciting things are happening to the prices of milk at the producer level, an evidence of good things for the industry," said Fraher. "But the ADC will be increasingly aggressive in the region to get the income to meet demands for milk and dairy products."

The ADC represents 23 districts in seven states. The dairy cooperative markets and sells milk and milk products for its more than 3,600 members. The ADC is ranked among the nation's top 10 milk-producing cooperatives, and marketed 3.36 billon pounds of milk in fiscal 1988-1989. Sales totalled $505 million.

Earnings 'on target'

Although the current fiscal year is on target with earnings, 1990 should "exceed expectations," said Fraher. On February 1 of this year, ADC will be celebrating its third anniversary, and Fraher noted a "marked improvement" in ADC's ability to generate better prices on milk and milk products for farmers in the region.

"There's been an increase in production by 6 to 7 billion pounds and a 75 percent operating cost cut since Interstate merged with Lehigh Valley Farms to produce ADC in 1987," Fraher said. Payouts in equity installments have been approximately $29 million in the last three years.

"In the past year, though, there has been a marginal decrease in the amount of milk produced, caused by factors of supply slowdown by the lowering of inventories of cheese and dry milk products and the long drought of 1988," he said. Milk prices should be in the range of $0.25/100 net a head with a base price of $14.00/hundred weight.

Signs point in the "positive" area, and demand has become strong because it is market-based and has a lot to do with the huge export market (375 million pounds) of milk and milk products out of the U.S.

Promotion of milk products

In the end, Fraher said, promotion of milk products for consumers through the efforts of ADC is essential. "In our five-year plan, we intend to be the most aggressive of all dairy cooperatives. But all the promotion would be for naught if we can't maintain an image of milk to the consumer as a wholesome product."

Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension agent, spoke about the necessity for each farmer to insist on quality production of dairy products to ensure better pricing. "We have to be everything we produce on the farm," Shirk said. Citing the importance of selecting the right forage, every farmer must concentrate on the quality of the product. "Consumers are more aware now than ever before of food quality in terms of health and safety."

Shirk noted that most consumers get most of their impressions of milk not on fact, but on emotions conveyed by current television and other types of advertising.

"We are producing food that people are concerned about," said Shirk. "The best job we can do is put our best effort forth in everything we do."

Increasing membership

Curtis E. Akers, director of District Q, noted the importance of increasing membership to improve the efforts of the ADC. "We need membership support from those who will support us," Akers said.

"The members made the cooperative what it is that makes it strong," said Fraher. "And they will continue to do so."

Also at the meeting, 25-year membership awards were presented to Daniel B. and Elizabeth Fisher of Paradise, Harold Findley of Holtwood, Harry H. Ranck Jr. of Ronks, and Roman and Lucy Stoltzfoos of Kinzer.

Curtis E. Akers, right, presents a 25-year membership plaque to Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Ranck, Jr. of Ronks.

3,132 Signatures On 'Bottle Bill' Petition

CAMP HILL (Cumberland) — The Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA) is kicking off a statewide campaign to place a deposit on bottles and cans, according to an announcement today by Keith W. Eckel, president of the statewide organization.

PFA collected 3,132 signatures at the Pennsylvania Farm Show last week in support of the "bottle bill" effort, and distributed close to 9,000 buttons and stickers with the campaign slogan, "Cash 'em, Don't Trash 'em."

"We want to place a deposit on beverage bottles and cans to discourage those persons who want to discard them along highways and in our fields," Eckel said. "If we place a value on these containers, people would be less likely to throw them along our highways, and there would be value in picking them up if they did.

"Pennsylvania has a recycling law, which we supported; and some say we don't need a deposit placed on beverage containers. That's just not true. People continue to throw bottles and cans out of their cars," Eckel explained, "We must attack that 'trash, not cash' mentality. Placing a deposit on beverage bottles and cans will be a big step in that direction."

The general farm organization is supporting legislation (S.B. 1360), calling for a statewide referendum on the question of a deposit on returnable beverage containers. If the legislation, presently in the Senate Environmental Resources and Energy Committee, is approved a "bottle bill" question would be placed on the next primary or general election ballot.

Voters would decide whether to place a nominal deposit on non-degradable beverage containers of 16 ounces or less sold in this state. The deposits would be returned upon redemption at recycling centers, retailers or manufacturers.

"Recycling our trash is extremely important, but we need a total package which must include a deposit on bottles and cans," Eckel said.

"States that have just recycling laws have discovered that trash is still being dumped along highways and in farm fields. But states with recycling and deposit laws have seen dramatic results in their efforts to clean up along highways and in the cities," Eckel said.

"The proposed referendum will let the citizens of this state decide, and we feel confident that they will vote in favor of a deposit on bottles and cans."

Eckel said that county units of Farmers' Association are appointing committees with the purpose of gathering signatures on petitions, calling for the referendum, and to secure a "Yes Vote" when the referendum question is placed on the ballot.

PFA is planning to present the petitions to their state legislators at the legislative conference, scheduled for April 2 in Harrisburg.

President Carter To Speak At State Holstein Banquet

make travel to their fishing area easier, Wayne wanted to cut an old, rusty barbed wire fence that was located between the cornfield and Spruce Creek but the President protested. Jimmy wanted no special treatment. He and Rosalyn both insisted on climbing over the fence. Wayne's first impression of the former President was that he was an extraordinary, down to earth individual who knew a lot about agriculture.

Since 1979 Jimmy has visited Evergreen farm on numerous occasions. Not only does he come to fish but he also enjoys hunting the abundant ringneck, quail and ducks on the partially wooded farm. In May of 1989, Jimmy and Rosalyn came to assist with construction of a covered bridge over Spruce Creek. "They were here five days," Wayne said. "When construction was completed we held a covered bridge covered dish party which brought together approximately 150 people, including chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, Paul Vocker. It was a great time for everybody!" Wayne happily recollected.

Jimmy and Rosalyn now travel from their home in Georgia to the Harpster's Evergreen farm by car. "We never talk about politics when they visit," mentioned Wayne. "On occasions we discuss the issues but we don't get into them! Jimmy still basically comes here just to get away from it all." Once when Jimmy was visiting, Wayne drove him across Tussey Mountain to the nearby Belleville Sale Barn where the Amish people just loved him. During another visit Jimmy and Rosalyn accompanied Wayne and his wife, Marge, on their short journey to State College where they enjoyed a Barbara Mandrell concert. "We were even invited backstage and Barbara gave me her autographed picture," Wayne admitted with a big grin on his face.

Wayne remembers well the time way back in early November of 1980 when Jimmy was helicoptered to Spruce Creek shortly after losing the presidential election. "He came to do some serious hunting," said Wayne. "I shot a wild turkey and Jimmy and his men shot pheasants, quail and grouse. Jimmy then sent the birds down to Camp David by helilcopter where they were deliciously prepared for a big game dinner which was held to thank many of Jimmy's past presidential acquaintances. Oh, what a great time that was!" reminisced Wayne.

Wayne and his family also had the pleasure of spending two days and two nights at the White House in 1980 and were entertained at the famous Kennedy Center. "We all sat in the president's box which was elevated and located right smack in the middle of the entire center. All I can remember is my kids hanging out over the balcony looking down at all of the people who were all staring up at us trying to figure out who we were. Don't even ask me about the entertainment that night!" he musingly added.

Wayne is not sure what Jimmy's topic of speech for the February 22 Holstein Convention banquet will be but he hopes it will include some details of the "Green Revolution," an amazing project which Jimmy and a team of specialists took to Africa four years ago. This project involves teaching the African natives how to fight famine by using improved seeds, fertilizers and farming methods to grow their own crops.

According to an article in the September 11, 1989 issue of TIME magazine, only 40 natives were signed up for the project in 1986.

In 1989 85,000 natives utilized the "Green Revolution" program which has resulted in the 300% to 400% increase in production of corn, sorghum and millet.

TIME magazine mentions that, "Despite all the troubles he had in the White House, Jimmy Carter may be the best former President America has ever had!" Due to projects such as the "Green Revolution" and Jimmy's unique ability to sit down and reason with hostile leaders of other countries, this may be true! If you would like to meet and learn more about our former President, get your Holstein Convention ticket forms filled out and in the mail as soon as possible. Banquet seats are going fast!

Questions About BST

ous aspects of BST and possible implications to the dairy industry.

Sponsored in part by the Penn State and Rutger universities' extension services and various dairy farm equipment supply and service businesses, the exposition's featured speakers included two representatives of companies involved in the manufacture of BST, two PSU experts and a spokesman from the BST-opposed ice cream manufacturer, Ben and Jerry's, of Vermont.

A consensus on whether the federal government ought to allow use of the biotechnologically-created BST was not reached by the audience. But, according to program moderator and co-chairman of the expo committee Greg Solt, developing a consensus was not the intent of the program. Instead, he said, the purpose was to allow local dairymen the opportunity to listen to different sides of the issue and to ask questions.

"We decided on this issue early last year, when it was widely reported in the media," Solt said. "Besides land prices, this seems to be the issue receiving the most attention."

Despite a lack of opinion forming on the use of BST, all were in agreement that, should the Federal Drug Administration approve its use, dairy farmers would be the first to provide the "okay" for industry use of BST.

During a morning and afternoon session, Dr. Robert Yonkers, a PSU agricultural economist, gave an overview on the status of BST. Although he said it was too early to make predictions of the drug's impact on the dairy industry, he said that increased milk production would not do anything to benefit the projected drop in milk prices and might accelerate the loss of dairy farms.

David Rock, PhD, with American Cyanamid company in New Jersey, talked about the safety and effectiveness of using BST. American Cyanamid currently manufactures BST, which is done similarly to the production of natural body hormones, such as insulin. According to Rock, all indications are that the drug is safe for use, since it occurs naturally in the cow and is already a constituent of milk.

Cyanamid also produces a number of agricultural pharmaceuticals and is also known for its chemical light sticks used by the U.S. military and marketed to sportsmen and campers. Rock said production of BST is an expensive venture for the company.

He said that should BST be banned, a black market supply would probably not come about since the chemical is probably more difficult to manufacture than current illegal drugs. Although he did say that human growth hormone, currently used to treat people with growth deficiencies, has apparently become a street market item for athletes because it can induce growth in height and muscle and is undetectable through testing. He said he couldn't rule out something similar happening with BST, but said it was unlikely.

Consulting veterinarian to Monsanto corporation, Dr. Charles Gardner, of Ackermanville, said that BST is a new technology and ties in with keeping good DHIA records. He also said he thought that the drug would probably not have an impact on the dairy breeding programs that have been performed to improve milk production and reliability in offspring.

According to Gardner, BST could be used to the benefit of both registered and grade animals, but requires that a herd be well-managed and properly cared for.

Gardner said he draws his experience with BST from hands-on experience with farmers in Pennsylvania and Michigan. He also qualified his finacial interest in wanting to see BST put on the

Dairy Herd Dispersal Sees Strong Turnout, Prices

LEOLA (Lancaster Co.) — A recent dairy herd dispersal sale here marks a new personal record for auctioneer Paul Snyder. He said the record average price for 49 registered Holsteins, put up for sale by Ephraim and Elizabeth Riehl, also demonstrates strong community support.

According to Snyder's figures, 34 cows sold for an average of $2,020 each. He said the average price is better than most in the Northeastern states and the highest average he has ever closed with a gavel.

The entire herd, four yearling bulls and 12 bred heifers included, averaged $1,789 each.

"It's a high average," Snyder said. "Everybody's been talking about it."

He said the animals deserved the price they received. "It was a top herd of cows and heifers. It was a well-bred herd," he said.

After years of running auctions and trying to help those dispersing herds to get good prices, Snyder said the early January sale left him satisfied. "Well it makes you feel pretty good, I'll tell you."

Individually, Snyder said he has seen higher prices per cow; but buyers, who all requested anonymity, consistently paid well for the Riehl herd.

Snyder said it was also one of the largest turnouts for a herd dispersal sale he's ever run. With 214 registered buyers, a 30-foot by 60-foot sale tent was filled to capacity, he said. A large crowd outside couldn't be accommodated under the canvas.

According to Snyder, buyers were from all over Pennsylvania and surrounding states.

Going at $3,300, the top selling animal was a five-year-old cow named Tower-Front Bell Elaine, that produced 23,780 pounds of milk, 850 pounds butterfat and 722 pounds of protein in 305 days as a two-year-old. As a three-year old, she produced 24,670 pounds of milk, 846 pounds butterfat and 765 pounds of protein in 304 days.

Her dam, Tower-Front Titan Ella, rated Very Good, showed a 365-day three-year record of 23,540 milk, with a 3.5 percent butterfat at 822 pounds and 3.1 percent protein at 740 pounds. Her 1-11 record shows a 365-day record of 21,210 pounds milk, 3.3 percent butterfat at 708 pounds and 3.1 percent protein at 661 pounds.

The granddam of Elaine, Cabin-Run Shine Esther-OC, rated Very Good, showed a lifetime record of 169,410 pounds of milk at 3.9 percent butterfat or 6,620 pounds.

Bringing the second highest price from the herd was a three-year-old cow, named Shelmar-Acres Spriit Beccy, rated Very Good. Beccy brought $2,650 for the Riehls. Her records show that as a two-year-old she had a 355-day production of 17,780 pounds of milk at 3.4 percent butterfat or 608 pounds. Bred Dec. 4 to Walkway Chief Mark, a Very Good, Beccy is projected at 20,840 pounds of milk, 669 pounds butterfat.

The first four dams of Beccy were all rated Excellent and produced best as four- and five-year olds with consistently strong lifetime production.

Selling for $2,450 was Shelmar Acres Bell Linda, a six-year-old Very Good, that was bred Nov. 27 to Walkway Chief Mark and is projected at 23,000 pounds milk.

The lowest price paid was $1,050. That was for a one-year-old bull named Tower-Front Beautician Mike, son of a Very Good dam with a four-year DHIA record of $23,610 pounds of milk, 3.6 percent butterfat and 3.3 percent protein. His sire was Happy-Herd Beautician DP, an Excellent 92 with PTA at +1005 for milk, +55 for butterfat and +31 for protein.

Jr Livestock Sale Sees Twin Records Set

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Two records fell at the revamped 1990 Farm Show junior livestock sale of champions when buyers paid a total of $10,700 for the grand and reserve grand champion swine.

All told, an estimated $167,000 was raised through the sale of the entire 334 junior livestock animals brought to Harrisburg this year. Of that, buyers paid out $29,250 for the top six junior livestock champions, to support the youth involved in 4—H and FFA.

John W. Clemmens, president of Hatfield Quality Meats, paid $7,000 for the 1990 grand champion swine, breaking its own 1981 record price of $4,086 and last year's price by more than $3,000.

The top swine was shown by 12-year-old Jason Dunkle, Centre Hall. A seventh grade student at Penns Valley School, Dunkle said he plans to use his money, "for a college fund."

Hatfield supports a number of swine sales put on by 4-H and FFA livstock groups. Clemmens said that he paid the record price to continue the company's support.

The next record fell when buyer Robert Kilgore, for Glatfelter Insurance Co., York, paid $3,700 for the reserve grand champion market swine, almost $3,000 more than the price paid for last year's reserve grand champion animal.

The recipient of the record price, York County's 13-year-old Matt Sellers, Thomasville, also said the money was destined for further education.

The small arena at the state Farm Show complex was redecorated overnight, as officials displayed all state flags and hung a large American flag across the back wall. The arena itself was swept clean, and green indoor-outdoor carpeting was laid. Along with rows of folding chairs, buyers were seated at long tables facing the show ring and the auctioneers platform, which was painted blue.

A white picket fence surrounded the show ring and was decorated with poinsettias. The show ring was cleaned and new green-dyed sawdust was laid.

The sale started with the playing of the national anthem by the East Pennsboro High School band and long-supporting buyers were introduced by officials, to the applause of the crowd.

As prices increased the crowd began a steady applause until top prices were reached.

Although records were not set for the champion lamb and steer, the prices were all higher than those paid last year.

The grand champion market lamb was shown by 19-year-old Scott Kuzemchak, of Centre County. Kuzemchak was a returned victor to the show ring; in 1988 a lamb he showed was judged grand champion and sold for a record $9,675 to Fox's Market, of Middletown.

This year, Kuzemchak's champion lamb sold for $2,000 to Danny George, for George's Foodliner, of Bethlehem. Last year, Kuzemchak's brother Joe received $1,862 for his grand champion lamb.

The reserve champion lamb, showed by Erick Hayes, 14, Tyrone RD 1, sold for $1,450 to Bill Campbell, C.E.O. and chairman of the board for Hoss's Steak and Sea House, Duncansville.

Campbell also made the top bid for the grand champion steer, paying $11,100 for the 1,285-pound Chinanina-Angus animal. It was

The old record falls as Jason Dunkle holds the banner in front of his $7,000 grand champion market swine, while buyer John W. Clemmens, president of Hatfield, stands behind. Jerry Clemmens, vice president of Hatfield holds a company banner over the grand champion while Boyd Wolff, state agriculture secretary, attempts to keep the hog from making any quick moves.

It could be his wallet that Robert Kilgore is reaching for, after just buying the 1990 reserve champion market swine for a record $3,700. Kilgore is farm manager for Glatfelter Insurance Co. Matt Sellers seems jubilant with the price he's getting and Boyd Wolff, state agriculture secretary, smiles at the record-breaking support.

Melanie Messick is all smiles holding her reserve grand champion steer plaque for the crowd to see. Bill Fox, vice president of Fox's Markets, smiles too, having just bought her animal for $4,000. State Agriculture Secretary Boyd Wolff holds the Angus-Chianina steer steady.

IT'S OUR 55th SEED CROP

by Ted Doebler

I'm Ted Doebler with our 1989 yield leaders. Not all that bad for a non typical year.

When I tell young folks I helped dad plant our first seed crop 55 years ago, they kind of gape at me like I'm some kind of historic monument.

Those 55 years of experience have paid off big, of course. In the hybrid yields we're showing you here. And in such nitty gritty stuff as test weights, stalk lodging and dry down.

In our business, hybrid performance is our only real measure of progess.

First big breakthrough was Doebler 77X in 1960. It was our first superstar, a single cross that immediately drew raves for its yields and disease resistance.

More recently we introduced Doebler 75X that smashed all Pennsylvania records in 1986 with a whopping 281.6 bu. It's still a superstar on Eastern farms.

Now here come the Extra Performance hybrids. Like Doebler 84XP. In two years of testing, it produced 2.7 more bushels than 75X but was also 2.3% wetter. And Doebler 66XP edged 75X in 1987, fell behind in 1988 and was about even this past fall. Isn't that what progress is all about?

Silage winners in '89 trials

Full Season—Doebler 944-3 way finished in a rush last fall to take tonnage, TDN and protein titles among full season hybrids. Doebler 84XP a strong second.

Medium—Doebler 75X, 113 days, outdistanced 75X-Mod and 70XC in TDN and protein. Kissing cousin, 75X-Mod, produced most silage. 70XC stayed close.

Early—Doebler 370A-3 way looked the winner in early trials. But Doebler 48XE big surprise. It won it all—tons, TDN and protein. 370A-3 way and 35XP tie for 2nd.

These bin busters ignore '89 weather

DOEBLER 86XA, 119 days. Wet feet no problem.Ten best tests averaged 171.6 bu., with 202.9 bu. at Narvon, PA. Great standup.

DOEBLER 75X, 113 days. PA's all-time champ still shelling big. It popped 197.5 bu. in wet, cool Ohio and 183.7 bu. at Lancaster. Great stalks. Shrugs off disease.

DOEBLER 66XP, 103 days. It wins top recommendation from Cornell for spring planting. Super vigor. Easy sheller. Resists blight.

DOEBLER 57XP, 97 days. Combine this baby. It shelled out 184.2 bushels last fall at Newtown, Pa.; 151.9 in New York and 185.5 in Ohio. Sturdy. Super oomph.

DOEBLER 35XP, 83 days. Great choice in early country. Averaged 124.9 bu. in first 10 New York and PA tests in 1989, with a 142.3 bu. top. Less than 1% stalk loss.

DOEBLER 28XP, 78 days. 1989 best, 145.3 bu. at Odessa, NY. Average at five NY locations was 123.8 bu. Stalk loss? A low 1%.

Pig Project Becomes Farm Business

BY VAL VAN TASSEL
Berks Co. Correspondent

BERNVILLE (Berks Co)—Twelve years ago Greg Stricker started in 4-H with a pair of market swine and a steer. Recently, Greg was the only Berks County FFA'er to receive his American Farmer Degree, the highest level of membership available to future farmers. The difference between an inexperienced eight year old and a young farmer with a growing breeding business can be attributed to good planning, good luck and supportive parents.

Sitting in a cheery kitchen complete with plenty of pig paraphernalia and numerous blue ribbons, Greg reflected on his first foray into the livestock industry. "I joined 4-H in 1977 with a Charolais cross and two Yorkshire market hogs. My dad was raising feeder cattle then and swine," Stricker explained.

Greg's mom, Shirley, was one of her son's 4-H leaders and she encouraged him to expand his project. In 1970 he established his breeding operation with two Duroc gilts and a boar. "Durocs are classy and they're the most improved breed going. They really stand out. They're fast growing and they have more muscle than other breeds. If you have Yorkshires, Hampshires and Durocs, the Durocs almost always gain faster," Stricker said.

Despite his enthusiasm for the Duroc breed, Greg keeps an open mind when he breeds his animals. "I'm not prejudice against other breeds. Crosses have a lot of good points and I'm not afraid of trying new crosses to get results."

Greg's breeding program supports his position. Each of the last 10 years he has added a gilt or two to his breeding stock. To date Greg has 15 sows including 6 cross breds. "We have Duroc-Hamp crosses and York-Duroc crosses as well as purebred animals," Stricker explained.

Stricker's ongoing breeding program has resulted in notable success both in the show ring and at the feeding trough. He has seen steady improvement in his rate of gain per day since 1982. "The pigs were averaging 1.8 pounds of gain per day in '82. By 1987 and '88 they were up to 2.3 pounds per day."

Greg Stricker is convinced that running his breeding animals in the open contributes to their health.

Many of Greg Stricker's feeder pigs are sold at the Leesport Market and Auction, but he has developed a local market with 4-H and FFA members looking for a champion.

At the same time the pounds of concentrate per 100 pounds of gain has dropped significantly. In 1982 it took 320 pounds of concentrate for 100 pounds of gain; by 1988 it had dropped to 293 pounds. Stricker credits the breeding improvements and attention to detail. "I combine hand feeding and the self feeding. Sometimes we have to hold show animals back."

The show ring brought Greg the significant collection of blue ribbons and rosettes that hang on the wall next to the kitchen table. "When I started I was raising market hogs but I always bought my show animals from someone else. Then Kenianne Rarick, another Berks Livestock member, asked me if she could buy one of my pigs to show. The animal she bought was selected as the Supreme Champion at the Allentown Fair. In fact, she beat my anipublic market; "I don't want to see the farm community fail because 15 percent of my income comes from Monsanto. The other 85 percent comes from farmers. I need them."

Questions About BST

Alan Parker, director of community services for Ben and Jerry's Ice Cream, said he and the company are opposed to using BST for three reasons: potential declines in milk value related to consumer distrust of product; declines in milk prices because of surplus milk; declines in dairy farms because of the declined milk price.

During the exposition, each of the speakers were provided time to present their ideas on the use of BST.

During the afternoon pannel discussion, featuring all speakers, two major questions arose that largely went unanswered.

Farmer Raises Moral Issue

One man, who left before being identified, explained that when he applies medications to his cows, his 13-year-old son understands that he does so because the animal is ill.

The gist of the man's question was: what is the moral and ethical difference between Olympic athletes taking hormones to become bigger and stronger and using BST to make a normally healthy cow produce more milk?

Dr. Gardner responded that "BST cows are not hyped up or strung out. Fundamentally it's better. BST directs more nutrients to the utter."

Rock, the researcher with Cyanamid, said "It's up to us to educate that BST is not a steriod hormone, but a natural hormone to stimulate the natural control program to produce milk. We feel dairy farmers will make the decision. People are more comfortable with technology once it is explained to them.

"I think it's a moral issue," Parker said.

The other question that received no finality in answer was posed by another dairy farmer centered on whether or not the use of BST is a totally new "ballgame" to milk production, or just an extension of some scientific practices already in place.

Dr. Gardner said it was not a whole new game, rather, he said, "It's new technology, just as pasturization was new technology and artificial insemination. It's a management tool."

Individually, each speaker presented concepts to further their views.

Parker, in opposition to BST, said he is familiar with the needs of farmers. He said he had been a DHIA supervisor in the Vermont area. "We (at Ben and Jerry's) are accused of being anti-technology . . . and having dreams of the good old days, if they ever existed . . . but this is coming at a time when the government's setting support prices is out of sync with the dairy supply. In our area we lost 600 dairy farms since 1966, the loss to the (farm) support structure has been great. Some say, that's the way it goes."

Relating to his days with DHIA, Parker said his top producing dairy farmer, while caring for an ill cow, once told him, "You know we push these cows too hard. It sickens me what we do for a stinking dollar." Parker said that is the issue.

According to Parker, there is more at stake than whether the product is technically acceptable for use. He said that "Whatever the merits of scientific debate," there are other issues of more importance. He said slipping public confidence in food and milk, especially with recent news articles reporting trace amounts of contaminants, is very important.

Parker also predicted that should BST become legal, dairy farmers would "eventually be required to use it in order to stay competitive" despite personal convictions.

He said this would happen because "those who use it first will gain the advantage before the negative effect takes hold (drop in milk price) and will be the only ones left in business."

Additionally, Parker said that government policy ought to be a preserving and promoting farming because an "ever growing population is going to need more food, not a lack of productivity. A hungry world needs more, not fewer farmers."

Philosophically, Parker said he disagrees with allowing the new technology on the merit of a single benefit. He said that there are too many industry disadvantages to using the product. "Technology must serve ideals," he said. "Not the other way around."

Supporting the use of BST, Dr. Rock is manager of international animal development of American Cyanamid Co., Princeton, N.J. He holds a doctorate in ruminant nutrition.

"BST is acutally another management tool for the dairy industry," Rock said.

According to Rock, American and European studies on the effects of BST in cows has shown, without doubt that the protein-based hormone works.

Pointing to data taken from a study of 969 cows with daily injections of BST and BST in implanted in a sustained release form, Rock said all evidence shows that there is a "continuous increase in milk production with a continuous increase of BST in the cow. BST does, in fact, work."

However, Rock said there is a price to pay for more milk.

"You don't get something for nothing, or else you would have cows blow away with the breeze after a lactation or two," Rock said. "Cows are going to increase their dry matter intake. This is what we've seen happen over a large number of studies.

"However, if you compare (dry matter intake to milk production under BST), they don't take in as much dry matter as they are puting out in milk; so, there is an increase in effeciency," Rock said.

Pig Project

mal. It made me look at my animals in a whole different way."

Greg's judgement has redeemed itself numerous times since then. He has won a number of events with his home bred animals including his own Allentown Supreme Champion and the Champion pair at the Reading Fair. He has also picked up many FFA and 4-H showman and fitting awards.

As Greg's animals gained prominence in the show ring, other would-be winners began to take notice. "We're starting to get a lot of 4-H and FFA members coming up here to pick out feeder pigs to show."

"We have a lot of repeat customers," Shirley added.

Walking out to the barn to look at a litter of feeders destined for the auction, Shirley explained that good service is almost as important to young customers as the quality of the animals. "Our customers always get the first pick of the animals."

"Before I do," Greg added. It has helped some of Greg's school age patrons pick up carcass and weight class winners at several area shows. Greg has also shared his showman and fitting skills with first-time beef and swine raisers.

Greg's animals have found their way onto some larger hog operations as well. "I recently sold a boar to a neighbor and he seems to be working out well."

Standing in the barn with the Strickers and the feeders, it's easy to see that Greg and Shirley like pigs. In fact, Shirley was raised on a swine farm in Kutztown. "I've been on a farm for 50 years. Our family raised Yorks, Hamps and Poland Chinas," she said with a smile.

Regardless of his success, the swine business isn't an easy one. "Prices have been low this year. We raise a couple hundred pigs a year. It can be tough."

"You just can't go in and out of this business. If you want to be here in the good years, you have to be here in the bad," his mom added.

Despite a tough year, Greg dreams of bigger things. "I'd like to raise more animals, but we just don't have the facilities here."

Shirley explained how the Strickers use their present facilities to their best advantage. "The breeding animals are on the ground in a 1¼ acre lot. We have huts and a small building we use for farrowing. Many a night I've sat up waiting for pigs to farrow. In the winter we have lights to keep them warm, but we like to keep an eye on them. If you're not careful, piglets can get a chill and be stiff by morning. Of course, in the last couple of years Greg has been doing most of the pig watching."

Greg believes in fresh air for pigs of all ages. "Little pigs like fresh air. They seem to be more healthy and I think we're getting better production this way." It seems to be working. Between 1982 and 1988 pigs raised per litter has increased from 8 of 12 to 10 of 12, a very healthy percentage.

Greg also finishes out some of his own hogs. "This year we finished 75 to 80 animals. Normally we do more but prices were so low it didn't make sense this year."

Greg graduated from Hamburg Area High School in June of 1986. By graduation day Stricker had already accumulated numerous awards including being a state winner and delegate to the national 4-H conference in Chicago, a State Community Award winner, and a member of the Pa. FFA judging team at the Virginia State Fair. He also represented the Hamburg Area FFA in FFA extemporaneous speaking contest at the regional level and exhibited beef and swine at the Pa. Farm Show.

After graduation Greg took responsibility for his parents' 125-acre farm. While the swine enterprise is Greg's favorite, he still has three Angus beef animals including two crosses. He raises a variety of crops including corn and hay. His corn acreage has grown from four acres when he started the crops project in 1984 to 35 acres in 1988. His increasing efforts and success on the home farm resulted in his being named the Pa. Livestock Boy in 1987.

Perhaps the highest award is one that no outside organization can confer. "In the last couple of years we've improved breeding, weight gains and the farm is totally self-sufficient as far as funding goes."

Despite the diversity of his agricultural experience Greg has arrived at a crossroads at this point in his life. Climbing out of the pen, Greg shared his vision of the future. "I haven't made up my mind what I would like to do. In the future I would like to farm on my own with a farrow to finish operation. Right now I am supplementing my earnings by working at the Leesport Auction.

While most of the local shows are designed for youth exhibitors, Greg and Shirley attend the local events offering advice to beginners and checking how the Strickers' pigs are fairing in the competition. Greg still may get in a little showing in the future. "Allentown is open to adults," he explained with a smile.

Consumers Think

what the label says it will do, if it's unsafe (perceived or otherwise) and is packaged in something that is not recyclable or is unsafe for her children."

Barr said in the present value system, Americans, both men and women, are seeking a sense of stability and equlibrium that combines the security and responsibility of the 1950's with the 1970's emphasis on personal choices of fulfillment. Barr called this value system the "New Traditionalism that says maybe mom's values are not so bad after all. Maybe she really did know something. I've been trying to escape my parents' values but my kids tell me I'm just like my parents."

Barr said the consumers that the Beef Council want to reach look for seven major values that can be summarized as follows:

Substance: it better be good.

Streamline: many different dishes from one cut of meat.

Amy Barr

Risk management: trade off seeing kids grow up for working outside the home.

Accountability: who is responsible if I don't like the cut of meat I purchased.

Bitter & Sweet: I'll starve myself all day so I can eat something fattening tonight.

Personal Style: for my friends, I'll prepare a meal that they have never seen before.

Barr called the children of today the first microwave generation. Babies say their first sentence about the bell that rings when the microwave oven has finished its work. And they learn to count on the microwave. Children learn to use a regular oven at age 12 but with supervision they learn to use a microwave at age five. We're likely to see banks of microwaves in future kitchens to cook the different foods.

"We are raising a generation of self-nuturing children," Barr said. "They are very smart, but they do not learn to cook. Computer courses have replaced the home economics classes in school. And while the family is returing to the home for stability, they are not comming back to cook. They bring fast foods home with them so they can watch home movies, VCR's and play games. They look for one-handed foods you can eat on the run."

Barr suggested that the beef industry may want to develop a dripless hamberger that you can put into your pocket.

Compact Diesels from Ford New Holland

The new Ford compact diesels give you more power than you'd expect from a compact diesel. They offer a bigger average cubic-inch displacement (CID) than leading competitors so the engine doesn't have to work as hard to generate its horsepower. And that means lower rated engine speeds, less wear and noise and better fuel efficiency.

Stop in and see the new Ford compact diesels. There's one just right for you.

gave him a "shirtsleeve" attitude on the job that has endured through many years.

"My sister and brother-in-law operate a chicken farm south of Chattanooga, Tennessee. Tennessee is a beautiful place to travel to, especially in the spring, but every time I want to visit them, they inevitably ask, 'Are you going to help us with the chickens?'"

A graduate of Temple University with a degree in journalism, Andy has worked for Chilton Company as a technical editor. In addition to editing a magazine devoted to computer communications, Andy has worked for Lukens Inc. as a communications specialist and written for Lukens Magazine.

A graduate of Garden Spot High School in New Holland, Andy enrolled in a year-long course in environmental agriculture while in school.

"The FFA, the Vo Ag and Env Ag programs at Garden Spot helped me a great deal in understanding the farming process. And the work I had to do — you can't beat that for learning."

Andy lives in Brownstown with his wife, Teresa, and son, Kevin.

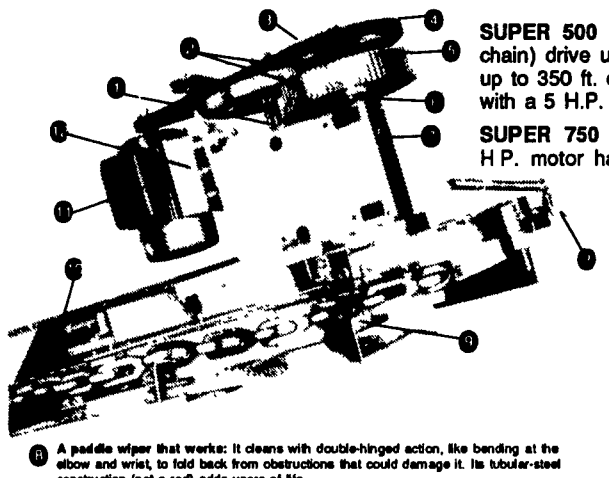
THE NEW LEADER IN BARN CLEANER CHAIN

Super Drive Power! Super 500 barn cleaner...for pulling up to 550 feet of chain. Super 750 barn cleaner...for pulling up to 700 feet of chain



SUPER 500 DRIVE: The Super 500 spur gear (not roller chain) drive unit handles up to 250 ft. of chain with 2 H.P. up to 350 ft. of chain with 3 H.P. and up to 550 ft of chain with a 5 H.P. motor.

SUPER 750 DRIVE: The Super 750 drive unit with 7½ H.P. motor handles up to 700 ft. of chain. The main gear is cast from ductile iron to provide the extra strength required for cleaning large barns.

Both units are packed with power and built to last.

1. Idler shaft support tube: Welded (not bolted) at top and bottom of frame to maintain gear alignment.
2. Heavy bronze bearings: Feature grease groove and zerk for proper lubrication
3. Heavy tie bar: Constructed of 3/8 in. thick steel to keep gear shafts in proper alignment for efficient power transmission under load
4. Heavy cast-iron pulley: Double A-groove is 15 in. in diameter. Double belt provides positive drive traction
5. Massive 52 lb. main gear: Built for power. Has precision-finished teeth on a 3 in. wide face
6. Main shaft support tube: Tube with replaceable bronze bearings is welded to the frame top and bottom to maintain proper bearing alignment under load
7. Welded box design: Main frame is rugged, massive and built of steel plate. Precision machining of the drive unit, as well as precision welding, prevents misalignment under the heaviest loads
8. A paddle wiper that works: It cleans with double-hinged action, like bending at the elbow and wrist, to fold back from obstructions that could damage it. Its tubular-steel construction (not a rod) adds years of life
9. Chain stripper: Guides Hook-Link chain off the heat-treated five-tooth drive sprocket.
10. Chain tighteners: Include 1 in. diameter adjusting screw and automatic spring-loaded arm in the flatbed return chute
11. Thermal overload: Protects the motor for efficient service and longer motor life
12. Proper belt tension: Attained by adjustable bolt with set screw that moves the motor back to take out belt slack.

J-STAR BARN CLEANER CHAIN - Face The Facts

FICTION: The Stronger the Chain the Longer it will Last...

FACT 1. The life of barn cleaner chain is not directly affected by its tensile strength. The strength of a new chain considerably exceeds the maximum pull of the drive unit. For example, the pull of a J-Star model 750 drive unit - the heaviest and fastest drive on the market - is only 33% of the tensile strength of J-Star's hook link chain. Enough said!!!

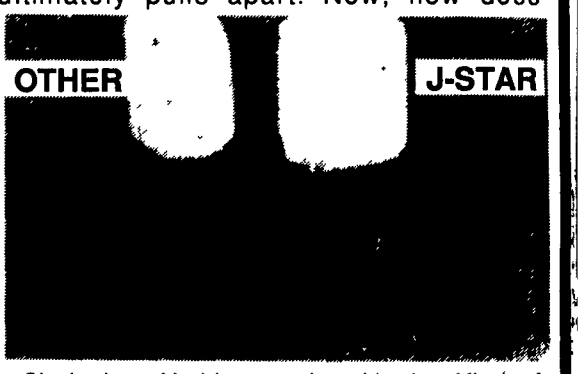
FICTION: All Hook Link Chain is Basically Alike...

FACT 2. The life of barn cleaner chain, for a given installation, is affected by its wear area and hardness. The greater the wear area, and/or the harder the wearing surface, the longer a link will wear before it ultimately pulls apart. Now, how does J-Star chain stack up?

* J-Star chain is hardened by the same process to the same hardness range as all competitive hook link chain — NO DIFFERENCE HERE!

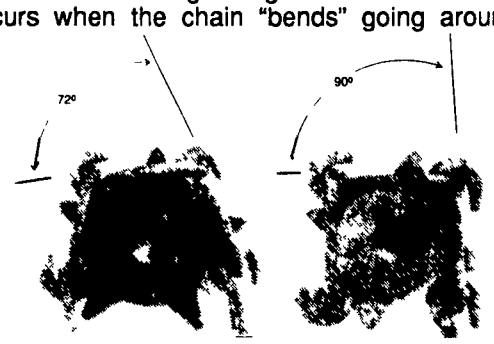
BUT...

* The first point in a chain to fail from wear is usually the end of the eye. J-Star chain, as compared to the other brand for example, has 35% more area in the hook link eye. Note the graphic difference shown below.



FICTION: The Life of a Barn Cleaner Chain has Nothing to do with the Kind of Drive Unit Used With It...

FACT 3. A chain wears at the point where the links contact one another. The rate of wear for a given installation increases as the amount of "grinding" between hook and mating eye increases. This "grinding" occurs when the chain "bends" going around corners, such as corner wheels, reverse curves, hold-down shoes or wheels, and around drive sprockets. Most competitive barn cleaners are about equal in the degree to which they "bend" the chain going through most of these points. HOWEVER - hook link chain does "grind" less when it goes around the J-Star 5-tooth drive sprocket than when it goes around the other brand 4-tooth sprocket.



¼" Paddles

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.

You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain of the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

Jr Livestock Sale

During the sale, Messick's steer became visibly agitated and began pushing Messick and another handler around the show ring. Twice it appreared as though the animal might break out into the area where television cameras were mounted.

Later, while being interviewed by reporters, Messick was asked if his other steers were as "unruly".

"He's the quietest steer I ever showed," Messick said. "He just got upset with the noise from the loudspeakers."

Messick, 19, is a business management student at Harrisburg Area Community College. He said he expects to graduate this spring and use part of the earnings to help enter into a heavy machinery operator business. He also said he will continue to help out with the family farm.

The price for the champion steer, while about $6,000 shy of the record paid in 1988, is higher than prices Messick received for his other champions. "In the past I've sold them between $9,000 to $10,000," he said.

Messick's cousin, Melanie Messick, 12, also of Dauphin County, had the reserve champion steer, a 1,215-pound Angus-Chianina that sold for $4,000 to Fox's Market, on a high offer from Bill Fox, vice president of the food store business. She said she was going "stick it (the money) in the bank."

Upon buying the animal, Fox said that the company has been buying winning animals for 15 years. "We wanted to support the local groups. They are a great group of kids."

Both Messick's have finished their junior showing, according to Mike. He is no longer eligible. He said Melanie has decided to stop.

Officials said the 75th Farm Show anniversary junior livestock sale will be even more impressive and entertaining.

Happy 'Hatted' Holstein Brings Smiles To Travelers

BY VAL VANTASSEL
Berks Co. Correspondent

FLEETWOOD (Berks Co.) — Darlene Younker's famous Holstein doesn't lead Berks County in milk production. She doesn't win ribbons at the county fairs. And while she is pleasing to the eye, she's just a tad too skinny to satisfy a professional classifer. But Younker's black and white bovine has had excellent reviews from another source — travelers commuting between Allentown and Reading. They rave about Darlene's happy Holstein standing contentedly at the head of the farm lane reminding all that pass to drink their milk.

Darlene's cooperative cow is made of plywood. While other cows are making milk, she is busy making friends for the dairy industry. Younker's venture into the world of milk promotion began with a gift from her son, Jimmy. "Everyone knows I love cows so Jimmy bought this large painted cow for my Christmas gift," Darlene explained.

The original cow was beautiful, but it had one drawback. "It was only painted on one side. We got the idea to hang it out by the road so we needed to have it painted on both sides. I got my neighbor, Lee Moyer, to cut out two more plywood cows and then I painted one to hang. We put the first cow in front of the milkhouse," Darlene said.

The Younkers put up a pipe frame for their wooden bossie and hung her on chains. Darlene even cut out eyes made of material used for motorcycle helmets. "The breeze would swing the cow back and forth making the eyes change color," she remembered wistfully.

The cows was popular from the first. "People would stop and ask to buy her. We've had notes left in our mailbox telling us how much they like our cow," she said.

About two weeks after the cut out cow made her appearance, she disappeared.

"I guess she was just a little too popular. We live at the end of a farm lane, and we can't see the cow from our house. Someone took her off the chains. The police never did find what happened to her. I guess it's a good thing that Lee cut out two."

Darlene Younker's plywood bovine is short on milk but long on smiles. On the busy road between Reading and Allentown this happy Holstein is a pleasant reminder to drink milk.

Nobody likes cows more than Darlene Younker. Among the crafts that Darlene has made are cow pillows and a cow basket.

Undaunted Darlene set about painting another. Then with the wisdom born of experience, her husband, Martin, devised another method of securing the animal so it wouldn't wanter off.

"Now we have the cow hung with plow shares. It doesn't swing like the first one did, but no one has been able to take it."

That doesn't mean that someone hasn't tried. "We found the cow in the air as though someone had tried to twist it off," Darlene said.

The new cow was ready to hit the streets in time for Christmas 1988. She made her debut in a jaunty Santa Claus hat. The idea was such a crowd pleaser that Darlene tries to keep the animal in appropriate attire all year long. "For Valentine's day I put a big heart on her and a red hat. She had a green hat for St. Patrick's Day, an Easter bonnet, a straw hat and a sun bonnet. I made her a pilgrim's hat for Thanksgiving, a witches hat for Halloween and she wore a hunting hat for hunting season."

Like the first cow, hats have a tendency to walk off. "My pilgrim hat was stolen and so was the first hunting cap. Fortunately I don't pay much for the hats. Most I make or buy them at the flea market," Darlene said philosophically.

Darlene has also made several other cows for family and friends. "My daughter, Kathy Adam, and her husband have a farm in Juniata County. They put the cow next to the road under a roof. Kathy has flowers there in the summer but she doesn't put hats on hers," Darlene said.

Darlene had some advice for those who are considering cows of their own. "I use ¾ -inch marine plywood for my cows. Make sure it's sanded on both sides. It costs a little more but it will save you a lot of time. I put primer on my animal and then two coats of white paint. Finally I paint on the black."

"Also be sure to keep your cow clean. Some youngsters tossed eggs at mine and egg can ruin the paint."

Darlene's artistic talents don't end with cut-out cows but they do center on bovines. In a kitchen complete with cow curtains, cross-stitched cows, stuffed cows and cow planters there is no need to inquire on Darlene's preferences.

"Every one knows I like cows and they keep bringing them to me," she said.

Often these presents give Darlene ideas for her own projects. "I was given a beautiful basket with a cow on it and my daughter Kathy and daughter-in-law Denise really liked it. So I had my neighbor Harold Berger, who is a retired farmer, make me the baskets and I painted them."

Darlene also makes cow pillows and gives them away for gifts. "They make wonderful presents."

Darlene embroiders quilts. "The church in Blandon does the quilt for me. I did quilt a baby quilt for my first grandchild. I really admire the ladies that do the quilting from scratch. It's a lot of work.

As each of her children has married, Darlene has made quilts commemorating the big day. She is looking forward to starting work on one for Jimmy. "He is going to marry Tammy Balthaser, former alternate state dairy princess. They both love cows so I'm going to work a cow into the design. They're not due to get married for a couple of years so I've got a little time."

Despite her talent, Darlene doesn't remember being particularly artistic during her school years.

"There just wasn't time. I grew up on a vegtable farm in New Ringgold in Schuylkill County. There was always a lot of work to do. I didn't get started on crafts until I was grown."

While Darlene didn't enjoy vegetable farming, she is very involved in the family's dairy farm. "I'm really a jack-of-all-trades. I can feed, milk and drive tractor."

Milking cows is her forte. "Marty promised me when we got married that I'd only milk for 25 years. It's been 25 years and I'm still at it," she said with a laugh.

Darlene's fondness for cows includes the real four-footed, tail swishing variety. In fact she now has her own herd.

"Marty bought me two red and white Holsteins because I liked them so well." One of her animals, Posch Connie Sue - Red, is classified EX 90 to her owner's pleasure.

Marty's appreciation of Darlene's farming efforts extend's farm beyond her red and white animals. When the couple was able to purchase the farmstead they had rented for 25 years in 1985, Marty offered to build Darlene a new house. "He always told me since I helped so much with the farm he would see to it that we had a nice house. When we bought the farm he gave me a choice, either I could have a new house or we could fix up the old one. I really like old things and decided to work at this place."

Marty had the 18th century farm house pointed. "We've been working from the outside in," she explained.

No doubt the cow motif that is so prominent in the kitchen will continue into other parts of the house. Jimmy, who has bought many of his mom's cow knick knacks made an attempt to top this cut out cow gift this year. "Look at what Jimmy bought for Christmas," Darlene said holding up a black and white Holstein toilet seat.

While these cows may not get the public attention that the hatted Holstein has accumulated they certainly have put a grin on his mom's face. It's the perfect gift for a lady who has gone a long way to give travellers a lot of smiles.

Darlene had a choice between a brand new house and fixing up this 18th century farm house when the family bought the farm in 1985. She kept the older home.

Princesses Help Out Community

In addition to promoting the consumption of Pennsylvania dairy products, state dairy princesses are active members of their community. These civic leaders in training recently helped out Pittston's WVIA Radio and Television during a recent fundraising campaign. Volunteers included (from left) Bradford County Dairy Princess Hope McMurray of Canton; Columbia County Dairy Princess Maggie Manzoni of Dallas and State Alternate Dairy Princess Mary Werner of New Castle.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Society Farm Women #20 met at the home of Vivian Hess with Verna Hess as co-hostess.

The auditors declared the treasurer's books to be correct - the present balance is $232.57. Twenty-two members answered to the roll call by saying what they received for Christmas. Members selected a red, white and blue toy soldier for the favors to be taken to the state convention in Harrisburg.

The Ways and Means Committee were asked again to have the food stand at the Horse Races at Andrews Bridge on march 24. Definite plans will be made at the February meeting, which will be held at the home of Vera Herr with Jean Ressel as co-hostess. Members will sew bed pads.

Since the Pen Pal with whom members had corresponded for many years has passed away, Sara Horner, was chosen as the Pen Pal. This month members had a "fun program." Each one brought an article or two of food such as cake, jar of pickles, potato salad to auction off. The sale made $47.15.

Berks Society 9

Group Nine of the Berks County Society of Farm Women met on Wednesday, January 3, at the home of Sue Hendricks in Amityville. Seven members reviewed the by-laws and discussed proposed changes which would mostly effect the organization at the state level.

Also members looked over program plans for the new year, and chose names for this year's secret pals.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Sandy Hoffman. Janet Levengood will present a program on the student assistance program at Daniel Boone High School.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

We grownups take ourselves too seriously.

See, we get burdened down with all these heavy, important responsibilities. Things like raising kids and paying off mortgages, striving toward career accomplishments, setting goals, meeting deadlines, serving in a myriad of community activities and just generally being "responsible citizens."

Hey. Whoa. Nothing wrong with that.

It's just that in all this responsibility, we tend to not make time to play. And so we see considerable mental stress and emotional fatigue, and the physical problems which so often result.

Having thus convinced myself that playing is necessary for a healthy lifetyle, I ignored for a few minutes that this is deadline day. After all, the fresh snow on the ground is a surprise; it was supposed to fall as sleet. And rising temperatures are predicted to melt this minor accumulation within hours. With snow, you gotta' play when it comes.

This winter, it has come a little more than usual -- a perfect excuse to temporarily abandon the office and snap on the skis.

Our daughter had no idea, when she hauled home those battered skis from a mid-summer yard sale a couple of years ago, that she'd get so little use from them. The textured scales on the ski's bottoms, which "bite" into the snow for uphill traction, were badly worn. Nicks and scratches marred the white and red top surfaces. The boots showed age, and the brittleness which comes to old footgear. In fact, a small crack had already started along the edge of one boot, where the squared front locked into the ski binding.

She had only briefly tried it when I borrowed the equipment one weekend at the hunting cabin. After a couple of clumsy crashes into the snow, the boot's cracked front snapped right off.

By the next winter, I'd vowed to replace the boots, or pick up a complete on-sale set of gear. An honest young salesman at the ski shop assessed the worn skis, the potential skier and the farmstead terrain over which they would be used. He pronounced the battered equipment "good" enough for my purposes, and sold me nothing more than a new pair of boots and two small applicators of special-formula wax -- for the waxless skis.

Our recent abundance of white-stuff storms has kept the skis conveniently parked by the porch door, so they're handy for frequent quick runs down through the meadow.

There are no neatly groomed trails there, but neither are there lift lines of a hundred other people. Usual route skirts both ponds, bounces along the rutted field road, climbs a grade through the woods pockmarked with a couple of muddy, soft spots and often strewn with broken limbs. The ensuing downgrade clatters across a metal dry bridge to the heifers' pasture, where, on a good day, my poles will miss getting snagged in the cracks between the bridge's crosspieces.

From here the downhill steepens, sliding away to the bottom where the heifers usually gather around a large bale and spend the night after filling their bellies. This is a key challenge part, negotiating the downhill and a turn, while avoiding fresh 'residue" left by the bred heifer herd.

Not necessary is a lot of costly, down-filled clothing, since cross-country is a more aerobic sort of skiing than downhill, more like jogging, and works up a sweat after even a couple minutes. Barn clothes are plenty stylish enough for gliding through the pasture to visit the heifers.

Even better is sharing this setting with a companion skier, one undaunted by downed limbs and pasture "residue."

Neighbor Ann and I tackled the meadow at dark after recent heavy snow, while our youngest packed us meandering three-wheeler trails to follow over the hillsides. Moonlight brightened the gorgeous night, but made us easy targets for the snowball thrower hiding behind his cycle headlight.

Playing in the snow is pretty cheap entertainment.

But such a friend to share it with makes it priceless.

With swishing dresses and pounding feet, dancers showed the audience that square dancing takes lots of energy.

Swing Your Partner

MARY LAEGER-HAGEMEISTER
Dauphin Co. Correspondent

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Excitement and anxious anticipation filled the faces of the gaily-clad dancers as they waited in the hallway for the gates to open to the large arena at the Farm Show. Passersbys could hear the pounding of feet practicing a few steps as well as shouts of "hello" to other dancers whom had been met at previous events!

In the grandstands spectators filed into place to take in the event as well as rest tired feet and backs after tromping through the aisles to learn all about the latest farming techniques and see the beauty of the beasts. Some of the stench from the barns hung in the air to remind spectators and participants that this indeed was the Farm Show.

As the gates opened and music filled the air the crowd responded with cheering and handclapping welcoming the competitors to the dusty arena. The parade of costume colors reflected each group's taste, from rainbow skirts to a more conservative navy blue with tiny polka-dots.

It was breathtaking for onlookers to behold the talent of young and old alike. Children as young as eight were stepping high and "bowing to the lady in the corner." The dedication and determined look on their faces spoke loudly that the art and tradition of folk dance will live on through the next generation.

Although not every group could be prize-winners they certainly won the respect of their audience! No doubt many will be back next year to observe this "old art" of aerobics!

WIFE Pursues Crop Program

OGALLALA, NE — "WIFE members are committed to work for change that will recognize a farm wife as a separate person when determining farm program payment limitations," stated Elaine Stuhr, president of Women Involved in Farm Economics (WIFE), Bradshaw, NE.

Stuhr said, "We are disappointed in the Supreme Court's decision on January 8, not to hear our appeal. WIFE will work even harder on legislative support."

On July 21, 1989, H.R. 2973 "The Farm Spouse Fairness and Equity Act" was introduced by Representative Ron Marlenee of Montana with 12 bi-partisan co-sponsors.

WIFE is working on support in the Senate and to have this provision included in the 1990 Farm Bill.

WIFE, a national grass roots farm organization, filed a lawsuit against the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) regulation Section 7.C.F.R.795.11 in June 1987. The regulation states a husband and wife will be considered one person in determining crop payment limitations. U.S. District Court, District of Columbia, ruled in favor of WIFE and ordered USDA to comply. However, the USDA appealed the decision and the U.S. Court of Appeals ruled in favor of USDA in June 1989. WIFE appealed the judgement to the U.S. Supreme Court and on January 8, 1990, the court declined to hear the case.

American Lamb: Lean, Light, Luscious

There is nothing mysterious or different about cooking lamb. Three general rules apply: Cook according to cut. Cook slowly. Cook at a low temperature.

The high ration of several important vitamins and minerals to calories in lamb makes it an excellent choice for today's health-conscious consumers.

LAMB LOAF

1½ pounds ground lamb
1 cup milk
1 egg, beaten
⅔ cup cracker crumbs
¼ cup finely chopped onion
¼ cup catsup
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
Pepper to taste

Combine lamb, milk, egg, cracker crumbs, and onions. Mix well. In another bowl, mix catsup, salt and pepper, Worcestershire sauce, and mustard. Mix thoroughly. Place lamb mixture in loaf pan. Pour catsup mixture over lamb mixture. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes to 1 hour or until done. Serves 4 to 6.

Salt and pepper lamb to taste. Sear lamb in hot oil until well browned on both sides. Reduce heat; add lamb stock, cover, and simmer 30 minutes. Meanwhile in a blender, puree 1 cup strawberries, sugar, raspberry vinegar, and cornstarch. Remove lamb from pan and keep warm. Degrease cooking liquid. Pour pureed strawberry mixture into pan juices. Stir over medium heat until thickened and smooth. Stir in extract. Return lamb to pan and spoon sauce over lamb. Cut bacon into 1-inch pieces.

Alternate lamb, bacon and mushrooms on metal skewers. Allow space between for thorough cooking. Season with salt and pepper.

Broil 3 inches from source of heat, for about 15 minutes, turning once.

QUESTION — Shirley Schwoerer of Wysox would like a salsa recipe. She writes that a few weeks ago she had requested a recipe for turnovers after receiving the first issue of Lancaster Farming. The next week her request was answered. She said, "You have no idea how much that meant to me. I had been looking for that recipe for years. I was so excited that I made them the next day. Words cannot express the rush of memories after that first bite!"

QUESTION — Donald Love, a faithful reader, requests recipes for making cottage cheese and cream cheese.

ANSWER — An anonymous reader requested a recipe for a light and fluffy French Toast like those made at Bob's Big Boy Restaurant. Thanks to another anonymous reader who sent the following recipe.

Fluffy French Toast

2 eggs
¼ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup milk

Preheat oil in skillet. Combine ingredients. Dip bread slices into the batter and place in hot skillet. Cover with a lid until lightly browned. Flip bread and brown other side.

ANSWER — Madison, New Jersey, resident Hazel Doherty asked for a recipe for Porketta. Thanks to Janet Gehman, New Holland, and June Sunday, York, for sending in identical recipes.

Porketa

1 4-pound pork shoulder

Debone meat and remove outside fat. Fill with a mixture of the following:

½ cup parsley, snipped
2 teaspoons minced garlic
2 teaspoons dried dill weed
1 teaspoon fennel seed, crushed
1 teaspoon dried rosemary leaves, crushed
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Roll roast jelly-roll fashion and tie with a string. Rub outside of roast with a mixture of the following:

¾ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground pepper
¼ teaspoon dried dill weed

Roast in a 350-degree oven for 35 to 45 minutes per pound or to an internal temperature of 170 degrees. Allow roast to stand for 15 minutes for easier carving. Slice and serve on hard rolls.

ANSWER — Sherri Meily, Mt. Union, requested a recipe for making pepperoni sticks by using ground deer meat. Thanks to Edward Kuhn of Gardners for answering.

Pepperoni Sticks

1 pound meat and fat mixture (meat and fat should be weighed to have the right proportions of 3 to 1).

1½ tablespoons curing salt
⅛ teaspoon red pepper
⅛ teaspoon garlic powder
⅛ teaspoon crushed anise
¼ teaspoon crushed fennel
⅛ teaspoon black pepper

Grind and mix. Using wax paper, roll mixture into log shapes no larger than 1½ inches in diameter. Refrigerate rolls 36 hours. Bake on broiler rack at 200 degrees for 4 hours.

ANSWER — Phyline Northeimer of Narvon requested a recipe for preserving eggs in a "water glass solution." I had never heard of this technique before, but thanks go to Betty Baldwin of Townson, Maryland; Shirley Schwoerer of Wysox; Josephine Matenus of Dallas; and Nancy VanCott of New Milford for sending in directions. Storing eggs in sodium silicate or water glass (as it is more commonly called) was a technique used decades ago. Sodium silicate is sold in drugstores. It is a sealing agent and must be discarded where it won't clog pipes. To preserve 12 to 15 dozen eggs, use the following recipe.

Preserving Eggs In Water Glass

Boil 3 gallons of water to remove minerals from water. Cool. Measure 9 quarts water into crock. Add 1 quart sodium silicate. Stir until well mixed. Eggs can be added all at once or from time to time. Make sure the solution always covers the eggs by at least 2 inches. Cover to keep liquid from evaporation.

If the solution is kept cold, eggs can be kept for one year, although they will lose some of their flavor. Otherwise, eggs will keep for several weeks.

ANSWER — Cindy Stahl of Lititz asks for a vanilla frosting recipe for iced sugar cookies. Thanks to D. Witmer of Ephrata for answering.

Frosting

½ cup solid vegetable shortening
1 tablespoon butter
1 egg white
2 cups confectioner's sugar
2 tablespoons cake flour
4 tablespoons milk
2 teaspoons vanilla

Beat egg white until foamy. Add remaining ingredients and beat well.

ANSWER — Karen Zimmerman, Myerstown, asked for a good recipe for split pea soup and other recipes using split peas. Thanks to Mrs. Samuel Horning, Mifflinburg, for sending one of her favorite soup recipes.

Split Pea Soup With Franks

2½ cups dry split peas
½ cup onion, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
5 cups water
½ pound franks, finely chopped
1 tablespoon butter

Simmer peas, onion, salt, and pepper in water for 20 to 30 minutes until peas are tender.

Lightly brown franks in butter and add to soup. Simmer 5 minutes to blend flavors.

2 to 3 tablespoons horseradish, drained

Brown ground lamb in butter. Add onion and cook until clear. Add garlic powder. Let meat mixture crumble into small pieces. Let mixture stand and cool for a few minutes before adding mozzarella cheese. Spoon meat and cheese mixture into pita pockets and wrap in foil. Place in 200-degree oven for 5 to 10 minutes. Serve with a mixture of mayonnaise and horseradish, either for dipping or as a sandwich spread.

Behind The Scenes At Penn State Exhibit

MARY LAEGER-HAGEMEISTER
Dauphin Co. Correspondent

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — They're back at their desks piled high with phone calls that need to be returned, days of accumulated mail, plus all the other projects that were put on hold during the days at Farm Show.

Some of the Penn State exhibit staff dedicated eight days to keeping the exhibit functioning; others were able to be there only one day, but no matter how many days or hours each individual spent at the Farm Show—they were working!

Like the sales people at the other exhibits the Penn State staff was there to sell. Their product? Education.

As Penn State employees and students, whether at University Park or extension staff from various counties, their mission was the same: to meet and educate individuals on how to improve their life and their community. Passersbys could learn facts about the College of Agriculture—including a surprising factor that only 15 students out of 100 at the college grew up on a farm!

By using a computer test, hundreds of people learned about chemicals in the home. Workers noted how much easier it was for the younger generation to operate the "user friendly" computer while others preferred to take hand-outs and talk to the "experts" about safe ways to dispose of hazardous wastes.

Although the beeping of correct answers from the Food Safety quiz board was irritating at the beginning of each day by the end, the staff was able to block out the noise.

Participants faces lit up when they pushed the correct button. If participants pushed the wrong button, staff helped quizzers understand why they may have answered wrong.

It was always very evident when farm safety experts were preparing for another tractor safety demonstration. Droves of people huddled together to be able to see and hear what they can do to prevent fatal accidents on their tractors.

When the microphone didn't work, the staff shouted the information.

While the primary goal was to educate the public, but much more happened for the staff. For many it was a chance to work with long time friends or cement existing friendships. However, it was also an opportunity for students to get acquainted with extension agents and specialists. Some had questions about careers while others just wanted to talk to people in the real world.

Sometimes visitors from one of the worker's county would stop by to catch up on the news. Farm Show offered time to share stories with other staff members, exhibitors, and friends from home.

To those readers who thought your extension agent was on vacation or wondered why your phone call wasn't returned—the explanation is "no" it was not a vacation by any means. By the end of the day there were headaches, backaches, and sighs of relief when the staff's weary heads hit the pillow. Your phone calls will be returned and rest assured many hundreds of people gained a wealth of knowledge because of the staff behind the scenes at the Penn State Exhibit.

Maryland Ag Ed Foundation Holds Baltimore Fundraiser

BALTIMORE, MD — The Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation launched its fundraising campaign with a kick-off dinner at Stouffer's Harborplace Hotel in November.

More than 250 people attended the $50/person fundraiser, which raised more than $15,000 to promote agricultural education programs throughout the state.

Speakers included Shirley Traxler, director of the "Ag in the Classroom" Program for the U.S. Department of Agriculture; Maryland Lieutenant Governor Melvin Steinberg; and Rev. David Simpson, a Methodist minister and former agriculture teacher.

The speakers emphasized the importance of agricultural education to let all students know about the importance of agriculture to Maryland's economy and to increase the number of young people who choose agriculture as a career.

The Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation was recently established at the request of Gov. William Schaefer to coordinate public and private support for expanded and improved agricultural education in Maryland's schools. Work is currently under way with the Maryland Department of Education to develop curriculum guides for including agricultural concepts in the elementary curriculum.

Spring-Like Day Cures Wintertime Blues

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — On Tuesday and Wednesday, outside temperatures climbed into the 60s. Children discarded winter coats; some grabbed a sweater and others thought it was warm enough without them.

Like many other children, two brothers from Lititz, took advantage of the warm weather to play in their sandbox and tree house.

"I like warm weather better than snow," said eight-year-old Raymond Martin as he guided his truck through the sandpile in his backyard.

His four-year-old brother Ryan agreed.

Warm weather makes them think of swimming, riding bike and playing in their tree house.

But warm weather isn't predicted to last. The brothers aren't too disappointed.

Raymond explained, "I like snowball battles and ice skating. When it gets dark and cold, I like to go inside and drink chocolate milk."

The boys are the children of Raymond and Debbie Martin.

Unlike Ryan and Raymond, some children are not happy in the winter.

According to an article by National Geographic News Service, one in five Americans suffer winter-time blues.

When winter comes, some children oversleep, gorge on cookies, don't want to play with friends and can't concentrate on school work.

But when the sun shines, these children change personalities. They suddenly have lots of energy and feel happy.

Doctors call this disorder SAD. It's medical terminology for seasonal affective disorder.

Studies show that few who live in Florida or other southern states are affected by the weather. The farther north people live, the more likely they are to experience winter depression.

Medical reseachers believe that in the absence of sunlight, some people develop abnormalities in brain chemicals.

To help cure winter depressions, researches made a light box that costs $400. Fluorescent tubes emit a full spectrum of light. Patients sit in front of it for 30 minutes to several hours each day. After this treatment, as many as eight out of 10 people who suffered from SAD pulled out of their depression.

Doctors said no light treatment should be tried without a physician's guidance. There is still a lot to be learned on this disorder.

This week's bright sunny weather was just what many people needed to chase the wintertime blues away.

Playing in the sunshine is much more fun than sitting under lights.

Sand offers endless ideas for creating farms, roads and villages. Raymond Martin of Lititz was glad for warm weather to play in the sand.

Children in Barrow, Alaska, chat in the half-light of evening. Alaska's long, dark winters produce many people who suffer from seasonal depression, an ailment linked to light deprivation.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Get the munchies ready way before kickoff time. Then sit back and enjoy the Super Bowl without distractions.

Today's recipes are quick and easy to make. Everything can be done ahead. In fact, everything should be done a day or a few hours ahead so each can flavor through.

Hot Spiced Cranberry Tea (for Super-Bowl Sunday, call it Touchdown Tea) is flavored with cranberry tea, spices, and a little orange juice. Cranberry tea bags are found by herbal teas in your supermarket. Other fruit teas would probably taste good in this recipe, but try them beforehand. I found that raspberry tea has a brownish color, not at all attractive to look at. If you need to make a large amount of tea, it's most efficient to boil water conventionally and make the tea mixture in a large cooking pot. For serving, you may wish to heat some servings in individual mugs.

Super Bowl '90 Crunchies are a delightful, "bet-you-can't-just-eat-one" snack calling for wide chow mein noodles. Popular on the East Coast for dippers, these ¼ -inch-wide noodles are rather new in the Midwest. Look for them in your supermarket by Oriental foods. They are lower in calories, fat, sodium, and cholesterol than most crackers. They also go with just about any flavor — from a spicy salsa to a creamy cheese dip.

Super Bowl '90 Crunchies are for eating without dip. The ranch-style dressing mix puts a tempting flavor right on the noodles. A little oil and the dry dressing mix are briefly microwaved together with the noodles. Be sure to stir well after each minute of cooking as the recipe indicates — otherwise noodles can burn. If you can't find wide chow mein noodles, ask the store to get them for next time. For now, substitute squares of cereal.

Warm Crab Vegetable Dip or, for game day, Defense Dip, must be made ahead, not only to enhance its flavor, but also so the dried vegetables in the soup mix can soften. Spoon it into several small microwave bowls and heat each separately when needed. Microwave on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) and stir several times so that the delicate cream cheese and crab don't overheat.

Hot Spiced Cranberry Tea (Touchdown Tea)

8 cranberry tea bags
¼ cup packed brown sugar
16 whole allspice
1 cinnamon stick, broken
8 whole cloves
4 cups water
½ cup orange juice
Garnish: orange slices (optional)

Place tea bags, brown sugar, spices and water in a microwave-safe 1½ -quart pitcher or measure. Microwave (High) 5 to 7 minutes or until boiling. Push tea bags into water. Steep (let stand to flavor through) for 5 minutes. Remove tea bags. Stir in orange juice and refrigerate. Before serving, microwave (High) 6 to 8 minutes or until hot. If desired, garnish each mug with orange slices. Makes 4 cups.

To make and serve: Double amount of spices. Continue as above. After adding orange juice, microwave (High) 2 to 3 minutes or until hot.

Hint: To keep tea hot for a longer time, heat and serve in microwave-safe mugs, allowing 2 to 3 minutes per mug.

Each 1-cup serving: 73 calories, 0 protein, 0 fat, 19g carbohydrate, 5mg sodium, 0 cholesterol.

Super Bowl '90 Crunchies

2 packages (6 ounces each) wide-style chow mein noodles*
½ cup vegetable oil
½ to 1 envelope (1¼ ounces) reduced-calorie ranch salad-dressing mix

Pour wide-style chow mein noodles into a microwave-safe 8x12 dish. Drizzle with oil and sprinkle with dry ranch dressing mix. Stir well to coat noodles. Microwave (High) 4 to 5 minutes, stirring well after each minute to prevent burning, or until noodles are hot. Cool, stirring occasionally. Store tightly covered. Makes 8 cups.

* If wide chow mein noodles are not available, substitute 8 cups of ready-to-eat wheat, rice, or bran cereal squares.

Each ½ -cup serving: 174 calories, 3g protein, 13g fat, 13g carbohydrate, 95mg sodium, 3mg cholesterol.

Warm Crab Vegetable Dip (Defense Dip)

1 package (8 ounces) light cream cheese
¼ cup low-fat milk
1 can (6 ounces) crab meat, drained and flaked, or 1 cup thawed surmi seafood (imitation crab), flaked
1 envelope (1.3 ounces) dry vegetable soup mix

Unwrap cream cheese and place in a 2- to 3-cup microwave-safe bowl. Microwave (High) 30 to 45 seconds or until soft when stirred with a fork. Stir in milk until smooth. Then stir in remaining ingredients. Cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour. When ready to serve, microwave on Medium (50 percent power, 325-350 watts) 2 to 3 minutes, stirring after each minute or until hot. Serve with fresh vegetables, crackers, or unseasoned wide chow mein noodles. Makes 2 cups.

Each 2-tablespoon serving: 50 calories, 4g protein, 3g fat, 3g carbohydrate, 346mg sodium, 17mg cholesterol.

Questions and answers —

Q. How do you check a microwave candy thermometer to see if it's set for the right temperature?

A. To ensure accuracy, a candy thermometer should be tested each year. If it's not accurate, you can't change the thermometer, but you can change the temperature to which candy cooks.

Clip your microwave candy thermometer onto a microwave-safe bowl containing about two cups water. Microwave (High) until water is at a full rolling boil. Read thermometer at eye level through door. If you can't see through the door, work quickly to keep the water boiling when you read the thermometer. While water boils, your thermometer should register 212° F. (Adjust temperature for high altitudes.) If so, cook candy to the temperature given in recipe.

If your thermometer registers more or less than 212° F at sea level, cook candy to a higher or lower temperature. For example, if your thermometer registers 214° F in boiling water, cook your candy two degrees higher than a recipe says. If your thermometer registers 207° F in boiling water, cook your candy five degrees lower than a recipe says.

Chicken Helps Pave Team's Way To Super Bowl

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Whoever wins Super Bowl XXIV most likely ate a lot of chicken at last summer's training camp, according to a survey of National Football League teams.

The National Broiler Council (NBC) surveyed league teams to find out how much chicken they eat and to determine the reasons for any dietary shifts.

Of the dozen teams responding, 10 said they are now serving more chicken than five years ago and two reported serving the same amount. No team reported serving less.

As to which meats are served most often, beef slightly edged out chicken by an index rating of 6.8 to 6.3. However, turkey scored ahead of pork, suggesting that poultry-powered football teams could be the wave of the future.

Asked what factors determine the usage of the various meats, the teams told NBC that nutritional/dietary/health concerns represent the paramount influence, followed closely by players' preference. The team's chef's preference ranked third, while cost rated lesser importance.

New York Jets director of operations, Michael Kensil, said he "definitely" has seen a shift toward more chicken. "Players are requesting meals that are leaner and lighter, like poultry. With a premium on spe ., players do not want to eat foods that bog them down."

Otto Davis, athletic trainer for the Philadelphia Eagles, said that players are requesting more chicken and, at the same time, the team is making a serious effort to educate them about nutrition, especially cholesterol and saturated fats. During training camp, players are "adamant" about their preference for fried chicken, Davis said, and it is served every lunch and dinner.

"At dinner, my leftover fried chicken disappears to become an evening snack before lights out," he added.

David Redding, strength and conditioning coach for the Kansas City Chiefs, reported, "We serve chicken two or three days a week. The team likes it fried but we usually try to serve it broiled or baked, without skin. We're trying to reduce our fat intake and chicken, cooked the right way, is a great low fat source of protein."

Kevin O'Neill, Dallas Cowboys' director of public relations, said the team eats together during training camp and on road trips. "Our pre-game meal is a buffet," he explained, "and an eight-ounce boneless breast of chicken is always one of the offerings."

Denver Broncos explained to NBC that players realize weight-training also means food-training. From the very health-oriented head coach on down, the team seeks healthy food and a complete phsyical fitness program. Foods, like chicken, fit into that approach to winning, NBC concludes.

Having a few friends in to watch the Super Bowl on television? The National Broiler Council suggests cooking up a pot of Chicken Chili to keep simmering on the stove and you'll score big for both good taste and nutrition.

Chicken Chili

2 pounds broiler-fryer chicken thighs
1 bag (2 pounds) dried pinto or red kidney beans water
¼ cup vegetable oil
2 large onions, chopped
3 cloves garlic, minced
2 tablespoons chili powder
1 can (28 ounces) tomatoes
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons crumbled leaf thyme
½ teaspoon pepper

Wash and pick over beans. Place in large saucepan and add water to a depth of 2 inches over beans. Bring to a boil, cook 1 minute and cover. Remove from heat and let stand 1 hour. Return beans to a boil, lower heat and simmer 2 hours or until bean skins burst. Drain beans and reserve cooking liquid. Remove skin and bones from chicken thighs and cut into chunks. In Dutch oven or large, heavy saucepan, place vegetable oil and put over medium-high heat. Add chicken and brown, turning. Remove chicken and reserve. To pan drippings, add onion and garlic and saute until soft; stir in chili powder and cook 2 minutes. Add tomatoes, breaking up with back of spoon. Add salt, thyme and pepper; bring mixture to a boil. Add reserved chicken, cooked beans and just enough of reserved cooking liquid to cover beans. Stir to blend well, bring to a boil, lower heat and simmer 3 hours, or until beans are tender, adding more cooking liquid if needed. Spoon into serving bowls and, if desired, top with shredded lettuce, shredded Monterey Jack or Cheddar cheese and dollop of sour cream. Makes 12 servings.

Teachers Grade Computers

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Computers may be able to take a big "byte" out of the national dropout and illiteracy rates, say our nation's teachers, by helping students find new ways to "key in" to success.

Nearly two thirds, or some 64 percent of the 1,100 teachers polled in a nationwide phone survey believe computers can help reduce dropout rates by stimulating students most at risk of dropping out. Official estimates place the dropout rate between 27 and 33 percent. The cost to the nation? As high as $240 billion annually.

Other findings of the survey, conducted by the Wirthlin Group and commissioned by IBM Educational Systems, include:

•Eighty-two percent of teachers polled said use of computer-based writing and reading programs in the early grades could help improve student literacy skills.

•Eighty-five percent said computers help students learn more and allow for more individualized instruction.

•Eighty-six percent said computers can help unlock students' creativity and (87 percent) make them more self-confident.

•Three-quarters said students who are not computer literate will not be adequately prepared for college.

•Seven out of ten said computer programs incorporating sophisticated multimedia such as audio and video-discs help reach students with important messages about drug and alcohol abuse, sexuality and other life-style issues.

•Eighty-eight percent called for some form of government funding to expand the use of computers in the classroom so students from different financial backgrounds would have equal access to quality education. Many concerned parents may want to write to their legislators on that issue.

4-H Youth Values Taiwan Visit

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) - "If I was going to go as an IFYE (International 4-H Youth Exchange) I wanted to go as far away as possible," said J. Craig Williams of Middletown. "My first choice was Russia, but they didn't have an exchange program so I chose Asia."

After being in Taiwan for five months as an IFYE, Craig has returned home.

Family Tradition

By living in another country, Craig carried on a family tradition. His father, Tom Williams, was an IFYE to India in 1962. Craig's paternal grandfather had been a missionary overseas and Tiz, Craig's mother, spent time in Germany as a nurse during her schooling. Craig's maternal grandmother, now in her 90s, hosts people through Friendship Force.

When she was in her 80s, she visited overseas through the Friendship Force organization.

The William's family values their international relations so strongly that previously they purchased a flag from the country of their guests; however, it got to be so difficult to get every flag that they simply purchased a United Nations flag which is flown in front of their bicentennial grey stone farm house when they have international guests.

In his family, Craig is a third generational Penn State grad from the College of Agriculture where both he and his father were members of Delta Theta Sigma, an agriculture fraternity.

Craig recalls, "I have been watching my dad's slides all my life and thought about being an IFYE while in junior high but the program requires you to be between the ages of 18 to 25 years old. I went on to college and got a job. Then I decided my time was running out so I better do it now!"

said the twenty-five-year-old with a grin.

Through the International 4-H Youth Exchange, J. Craig Williams from Middletown enjoyed five months in Taiwan.

Culture Shock

After a total of twenty-five hours enroute from Washington D.C. to Taipei, the capital of Taiwan, Craig and three other American IFYE's not only experienced jet lag, but culture shock as well. As a blonde-haired American, Craig really stood out in the crowded streets of Taipei where they spent their first day visiting museums and other cultural points of interest.

"The city is much like New York City except not as tall and there were more motorcycles. Helmetless cyclists clammered through the streets turning a three or four lane passageway into 40!"

One of the biggest differences in the two cultures is the degree of independence.

"The Chinese do everything in groups never as individuals. That was hard because when I wanted to go for a walk alone, someone would always go with me! It was very difficult to have time alone."

Throughout his five month stay Craig was paired with another IFYE from Iowa in nine out of the eleven host families. That is very different from the American IFYE program where individuals stay alone with their American families. Another major difference in the Taiwanese and American culture is the respect for older people and teachers. It is expected that anyone older than oneself must be addressed as "uncle" or "aunt" which was confusing to Craig because at first he thought these people were all related. All the children addressed him as Wei Williams) Jammo (James, his first name) Sue (Uncle). The family name is always used first. Although Chinese people are very mild mannered they are very loud people.

They have commercials on T.V. to remind the people to be quiet when they visit other countries." Craig reported.

Host Families

The job of the host family was to make sure the guest drank and ate a lot.

Each day the family would take Craig to meet people and attend socials. It was customary to toast the guest many times and encourage Craig to eat more!

He said, "I didn't gain any weight but some of the girls did."

The host families had children Craig's age or younger. In one family Craig taught the two youngsters the ABC's. They in turn went to school and taught the other children.

Craig has sent wooden ABC blocks to the children so they can continue to practice.

"I had decided that I would give away my American T-shirts so that I could make room in my suitcase to bring back souvenirs. But every time I gave away a shirt I would get one back in return plus other gifts," Craig said.

He received so many gifts he had to ship four boxes of treasures home.

While staying with his first family, Craig attended class five days a week for one month to learn Mandarin Chinese. "The difficult part is that there are four tones in the language and with each tone a word has a different meaning, so one word may be spelled the same but mean four different things."

By the end of his stay Craig's Chinese had greatly improved. His last family spoke no English so he was able to really put his new language to the test.

To maintain his Chinese fluency, Craig visits a restaurant in Highspire owned and operated by Chinese immigrants from the mainland.

Agriculture and Industry

Taiwan is an island twice the size of New Jersey. However, two-thirds of the island is mountainous and too steep to till. The western flatland, one third of the land, is occupied by 20,000,000 people—the 20,000,000th baby was born while Craig lived on the island.

The Tropic of Cancer runs through the center of the island. The western flatland is agricultural and industrial.

"Agriculture is very advanced, more than I thought it would be, Craig said. "One hundred percent of the farmers have machinery."

The farms are small, a little over one acre. The country's number one crop is rice followed by pigs, shrimp and fish.

"We had shrimp at least four days a week. They were huge and delicious!"

Because Taiwan built its industry so rapidly over the past forty years, without enough forethought to environment, it is faced with environmental concerns. "All the drinking water has to be boiled and they have a waste problem, but not to the extent that the United States does. They don't have facilities equipped correctly to handle it. Of course, there is air pollution in the cities."

The whole experience entailed a

Cakes By Pauline Is Lebanon Farm Woman President's Specialty

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MYERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — As a cake decorator teacher, business partner, former tax collector, and head of numerous civic organizations, Pauline Gundrum of Myerstown knows what brings her the most satisfaction.

"I'm most proud of being a member of Farm Women. They're the best people. There's no comparison. No one bickers or argues; everyone is willing to help everyone else. The group can't be beat."

With such devoted support for the organization, members are confident Pauline will provide superb leadership as president of Lebanon County's 21 Farm Women societies.

The county has more than 300 members, 31 of which belong to Pauline's Group 9.

During her two-year term, Pauline hopes the Farm Women will publish a cookbook of the county's favorite recipes. She also would like to see membership in each of the county groups increase.

Pauline joined the organization in the '70s. Since then, she's held numerous positions of leadership while working with other civic groups and fashioning a career.

She and her husband, Edward, run a small welding business known as Mike's Welding Shop. She also is employed parttime by her local township office. Although local residents seem to know her from everywhere, Pauline is best known for her specialty cakes.

"About 31 years ago I took a correspondent course on cake decorating," Pauline said. "I started making them for family and friends and word got out that I bake them and others started asking for them."

Her baking skills became incorporated into teaching two years ago when she responded to an ad for teaching cake decorating at a local department store. The store sent her to a one week cake decorating seminar.

"The first day I was nervous as a cat," Pauline admitted. As she tried the techniques and found she could do them competently, she gained more confidence. By the end of the seminar, she earned certification in the Wilton Method Cake Decorating. Now she demonstrates cake decorating at J.C. Penneys, Boxcov's and Dec-A-Cake.

First time participants at her classes often express fear that they will never learn to decorate cakes.

When Pauline forms violets, roses and daffodills with deft curves and turns, it looks so easy. She maintains it is easy.

And with her coaching, a student attending her first class can learn to form ghosts, snowmen, swans, ducks, chicks, turkeys, pumpkins and roses.

Pauline has a whole case of cake decorating tips to form various border designs and script messages. She prefers to use parchment bags shaped in a triangular shape for holding frosting.

Roses are shaped on a gadget called a nailhead and transferred to the cake with a scissors. The trick to making a nicely decorated cake Pauline said is to smooth out the frosting with a paper towel.

She uses scissors and toothpicks to arrange flowers on the cakes.

Classes cost $15 for four weeks. The decorating kits cost $17 to $22.

To gain publicity for her classes, Pauline gives three-hour cake demonstrations at department stores. Although she often uses a particular cake pan or mold in her demonstrations, she personally prefers to use round or square pans and paints on designs with the frosting.

"Character pans often wan in popularity and then it sets in your cupboard," Pauline said. Round and sheet cakes can be decorated any way you prefer.

She owns a "cake kopy," that projects designs on the cake that she can outline with frosting. This allows her to use any design that customers prefer. Customers often bring greeting cards or choose from her file of patterns.

"I like a challenge so I like when customers ask me to try something new," Pauline said.

She has designed trucks, tractors and 4-foot cake skis for customers.

Except for wedding cakes, customers pick-up orders at Pauline's home. Wedding cakes she transports free of charge within the six-month commitment including orientation and debriefing at the National 4-H center in Washington, D.C.

At the end of his five-month stay in Taiwan, Craig had three weeks of free time during which he spent one visiting three of his favorite host families. Another week was spent in Japan visiting American friends and a former youth exchange to Dauphin County and guest of the William's family. His final free week was spent in Hawaii.

"It was neat," Craig said. "I was on the beach when I came across a Chinese tour group who could not speak English. Having learned Mandarin Chinese, I was able to communicate with them."

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

When I tucked away some of the last Christmas ornaments, I took a bit of time to look at some other items in my cedar chest. The red wool stockings that I hang at the mantel are kept in a chest that my grandfather had bought for me when I graduated from high school.

In a corner was a crib quilt that belonged to my grandmother and laying on top of some homespun linen was a large colorful quilt from a great grandmother. The linen has initials marked in ink in one corner of the heavy material. Pink yarn was carefully wrapped in tissue paper. It was leftover from a snowsuit that was made especially for our first daughter.

I opened a scroll tied with a white and blue ribbon and discovered that it was my own graduation certificate given to me many years ago. A large Elgin pocketwatch with a leather fob lay nearby but it would not run.

When I opened a small round wooden container, I found some dishes and nickels from the 1950's. However, one coin that I'd found in the driveway was much older. It was a very tiny, thin United States three cent piece from 1853. It was apparently lost before and I am afraid it will get lost again.

This year I spent one day at the Lancaster Farming booth at the Pa. Farm Show. It is very nice to meet some of my readers and some of the auctioneers that I contact for Sale Reports.

A little time was spent looking at the home economic department items and at the fruits and vegetables in the front lobby of the building. My husband bought a beautiful purple African violet for me and we stayed to see the colorful square dance competition in the evening.

York Chamber To Salute Ag Industry

YORK (York Co.)— The Yourk Area Chamber of Commerce will salute the agricultural industry as part of its third annual agriculture recognition banquet. U.S. Representative Steve Gunderson, R-Wisconsin, a strong advocate of agricultural issues, will present the keynote address.

Rep. Gunderson, a member of the U.S. House of Representatives since 1980, serves on the Agriculture Committee to maintain the family farm structure and the rural economy which earned him the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation's distinguished service to Wisconsin award, the federation's highest award, in 1988. As a member of the Conservation, Credit and Rural Development Subcommittee, Rep. Gunderson was instrumental in drafting legislation to restore financial health to the Farm Credit System, including an amendment to create a secondary market for agricultural loans. Rep. Gunderson is also the ranking republican on the Livestock, Dairy and Poultry Subcommittee and member of the Tobacco and Peanuts Subcommittee.

After Rep. Gunderson's speech, the chamber will recognize ag-exchange day participants, farm-city tour hosts and farm visitation day hosts.

The banquet is scheduled for Thursday, January 25, 7:00 p.m. at Wisehaven Hall. Tickets are $13 per person or $104 for a reserved table of eight. Organizations sponsoring tables will be acknowledged in the banquet program. To register, contact Grace Julius at the chamber office, One Market Way East, York or 848-4000.

county. Through trial and error, Pauline learned not to put tier cakes together until after transporting them. And she always takes the various colors of frosting along in case the cake needs touch ups.

Restaurant personnel often praise Pauline for her well-decorated cakes. They say, "You should see some of the cakes bakeries deliver; they're so sloppy."

She offered some tips for frosting making. "Use vegetable shortening instead of butter. Don't use milk. That way there's nothing to spoil or change flavor during humid weather. Use butter flavoring and salt to cut the sweet taste.

Not only does her cakes look good they also taste good. Through trial and error, Pauline found the perfect combination for baking top-of-the-line cakes. Strawberry cake, a recipe she thought up, peanut butter, applesauce, bananna and pineapple flavors are favorites among Pauline's regular customers.

"If I were 20 years younger, I'd open a bakery where I'd bake sticky buns, breads, and cakes," Pauline said. "But at my age I have enough to do."

In addition to teaching and decorating cakes while carrying on her bookkeeping jobs, Pauline has served as president of the Lebanon County Friends of Retarded Children, is a member of the Little Kutztown Community Fire Company and works in her flower beds and black raspberry patch.

Cakes by Pauline can be ordered at 460 Kutztown Road, Myerstown, PA 17067 or by calling (717) 866-5532.

Wool Wizards Spin Wool Into $1,000 Award

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)— The Wool Wizards from Lancaster, Dauphin and York counties took home most of the top awards in the 1990 Pennsylvania Sheep-to-Shawl contest, held January 10, at the 74th annual Pennsylvania Farm Show.

The fall sunset design shawl that the team produced in two hours was named grand champion shawl at the close of the competition. It was sold to Ray Hillard, Jr. of Premium Ag Products, Richfield, for $1,000. The Wool Wizards had also produced the 1989 grand champion shawl.

The team received rosettes, a plaque, a traveling trophy and a $160 premium for their efforts.

Each member of the Wool Wizards also received one of the special awards given in the contest, held before a large crowd in the Small Arena.

Shearer Chris Herr of Narvon, Lancaster County, was named best shearer of the contest and was the first to finish shearing his sheep, completing the task in three and a half minutes. The award was based on speed, absence of second cuts, absence of cuts on the sheep, and even workmanship.

Weaver Tom Knisely of Dover, York County, received the weaver's award for innovative design. The award was based on difficulty and detail of design, originality, use of color, drapeability, and judge's discretion. Knisely had prepared the warp threads using an ancient method of dyeing called IKAT, similar to tie dyeing.

The three spinners for the Wool Wizards, Carolyn Peyser, Kathy Graham and Mary Hubler, all of Dauphin County, took home the premium spinning group award. Overall uniformity and evenness of the team's yarn, and points accrued during the judging of the shawl were the criteria used to determine the award. It was the third year in a row for the team's spinners to receive the award.

The fleece award, based on cleanliness, condition, luster, crimp and suitability of the fleece, went to Diane Huddleston, Lehigh County, a spinner for The Bobbin Bunch. Huddleston owns the Cheviot ewe her team used in the competition.

For the second year in a row, the Wool Bags of Indiana and Jefferson counties produced the reserve champion shawl. The richly-colored "Joseph's Coat" shawl was purchased by Ken and Barb Longenecker of H & H Tack Shop, Annville, for $900. The shawl also received the team's choice award, in which members of all nine competing teams vote for their favorite shawl.

Only residents of Pennsylvania are eligble to compete in the popular contest, held annually at the Farm Show since 1981. Teams must qualify to compete by participating in one other sheep-to-shawl competition or two demonstrations within the past year.

The purpose of the contest is to promote the sheep industry of Pennsylvania and to provide a competition for regional crafts people. It was sponsored this year by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Grower's Association.

Shawls had to be completed -- from shearing the sheep to presenting the finished shawl to the judge -- within two-and-a-half hours to be considered for awards. All nine shawls were handed in within 2 hours and 22 minutes of the start of the contest. The fastest team, The Fiber Friends of Schuylkill County, completed their shawl in one hour and 55 minutes, with the Ewe-Nique Fiber Guild of Lancaster and Lebanon counties dashing to the front of the arena with their shawl only 30 seconds later.

Judges for the contest were Carol Woolcock of The Mannings Handweaving School and Supply Center, East Berlin; Evelyn Pirson, a teacher of weaving at the State University of New York at Buffalo; Anthony Dobrosky, York County Extension Director; and Sigrid Piroch of Design Originals, Meadville.

Teams were judged on team identification (5 points), shearing (5 points), speed (5 points), spinning (35 points), design (30 points), and weaving (20 points). The Wool Wizards had 84.67 points, while the second place Woold Bags earned 78.33.

In third place, with a modified "Ginny's" coat shawl, were the Roving Rolags of Lancaster and York Counties. Fourth place went to the Bobbin Bunch; fifth place to the Spin Thrifts of Butler, Armstrong and Indiana Counties; sixth to the Fiber Friends, and seventh to the Lebanon Valley Woolseys, who were competing for the first time in this contest. Honorable Mention awards were given to the Ewe-Nique Fiber Guild and the Butler County Pedallers.

The Wool Wizards receive the travelling trophy for the grand champion shawl from Mrs. Robert P. Casey and Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff. Spinner Mary Hubler holds the trophy aloft.

Ken and Barb Longenecker of H & H Tack Shop in Annville purchased the reserve champion shawl for $900 in their first Farm Show purchase. Congratulating the Wool Bags and the Longeneckers is Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolff.

Extension Agent Retires

NEWARK, Del. — Cooperative Extension without Dean Belt, University of Delaware renewable resources agent, is hard to imagine. But his 28 years with extension ended this month as he began his retirement.

Belt has been with Delaware Extension since 1961, when he began his career as a 4-H agent in New Castle County. In 1978, he became the agricultural agent for the county, and in 1988, Belt was named the renewable resources agent.

The extension veteran took this responsibility seriously. "Each of us is a consumer of resources and each of us has an impact," he said. "We all need to insist that our land use activities do not create environmental problems. Open land must be protected for agricultural and forest use, water recharge, air quality and recreation. We need to become involved with conservation to be sure something is left for the future."

As renewable resources agent, Belt has also encouraged people to plant wildlife feed and cover, thus making their land suitable for leasing of hunting rights. Another project has been exploring the possibility of cultivating paulownia trees as an alternative crop.

"These trees grow readily in Delaware, are quick to mature and have a high cash value," he said.

Belt grew demonstration paulownia at Middletown and Georgetown sites in Delaware. He sees the paulownia as an alternative crop to consider for small pockets of land that might otherwise go unused.

Belt will be missed in extension's ranks according to Dave Woodward, assistant Extension director for agriculture and natural resources.

"Dean was an excellent 4-H agent," he said. "He was respected by volunteer leaders as a most sincere and dedicated individual and an outstanding role model for youngsters.

"As an agricultural agent and renewable resources specialist, his expertise in working with people enabled him to serve the people of New Castle County and the state well," Woodward said.

Typical of Belt is his readiness to praise others before himself. "I feel I have learned more than I've been able to contribute," Belt said. "Team work with agencies has been rewarding, everyone stepping in when their expertise can help."

Belt said he is proud of his extension work and his colleagues. "The interest that each of us has in Delaware's agricultural challenges is paramount. Extension is a team that can access a vast variety of information and agencies to help the people in the state."

Belt said his highlights in extension have been in helping farmers implement new ideas.

"When no-till farming first came out, it was exciting and rewarding to see farmers willing to try new practices," he said.

Belt's retirement will allow him and his wife Peg, who works part time at a preschool child care facility, to take advantage of travel and other opportunities. But he said he also expects to be involved in activities with the Delaware community.

One day a week will be devoted to working with the Delaware Estuary program-- sponsored by the Delaware Association of Conservation Districts and managed through the Division of Water Quality.

"I'll be working to build public awareness and participation," he said, "and I'll enjoy continued contact with Extension."

Yoachim Farm: A Place To Raise Children Close To God

BY KAREN HICKS
Bradford Co. Correspondent

ROME (Bradford Co.)— "A farm is the best place for children to work with God. Too many of our generation have lost touch with Him through greed and material wealth," said Paul Yoachim. "This is the best place I can have a family, on a farm, where we see God's work every day."

Yoachim grew up on a hog farm in the Lehigh Valley near Zionsville, Pennsylvania. His father raised about 300 hogs. It was his father's avid interest in the industry, and traveling to shows, that eventually brought the senior Yoachim into contact with another hog grower, 150 miles away, near Catawissa, whose daughter Paul would one day marry.

Paul Yoachim is the youngest of 11 children. On his father's farm, he learned the value of hard work. Paul and his wife Kathy never questioned that a farm was the kind of place to raise their kids, and never doubted that it would take a lof of hard work.

His strongly German background is evidenced by the story of how his great grandfather came to this country with a name spelled "Joachim." Unable to write his name, immigration officials wrote it for him, spelling it phonetically with a "Y." From that day the two branches of the family were distinguished by the spelling of their name.

Sold farm

When Yoachim graduated from high school, his father sold the farm in Zionsville and moved to Athens, Pennsylvania. When he returned from Vietnam, his father sold the farm, and Paul went to work for the Stroehmann Bakery in Sayre.

After training at Harrisburg Hospital, Kathy began work as a certified lab assistant at the Robert Packer Hospital in Sayre. When Ann, the first of the Yoachims' two children was born, Kathy stayed home with the babies. However, money became so tight that by the time Ann was four years old, the Yoachims were living in a trailer and watching their dreams slip away.

In 1981, they found a farm that the owner was willing to finance. Paul, Kathy, Ann, and two-year-old Adam moved in. The neighbors remarked at their courage at taking on a place that needed so much work. Nine years later, the farm keeps getting better and better.

Paul Yoachim has worked at Stroehmann's Bakery for 19 years. After a five-year interlude when the children were small, Kathy went back to the Robert Packer Hospital and has worked there ever since.

Between 50 and 100 hogs

With both of them working full-time, the Yoachim farm now numbers between 50 and 100 hogs, 15-20 beef cattle, 30-100 ducks for meat, 50-100 turkeys, and enough chickens to keep them in eggs.

In every sense, the Yoachim farm is a family operation. Ann, 13, and Adam, 11, work just as hard as their parents to keep the operation running.

Paul Yoachim was a Keystone Farmer and a candidate for American Farmer. He never questioned that he would get back to farming, and before they brought their 8-acre haven, he already had a pig named "Annie" waiting, the result of a deal with a friend -- the pick of the litter in exchange for castrating the males and cutting all the black teeth. Annie served the Yoachims well, yielding 140 piglets over her productive lifespan.

Yoachim Farm

Paul Yoachim's farming philosophy is simple. "You have to look and plan for the best dollar, no matter whether you are a big operation or a small one," said Paul. When the price drops on calves, Paul will turn to raising them for beef. Meanwhile, he runs the beef as a cow and calf operation. With intensive grazing called "zero grazing" when he was a kid, Yoachim calculates that there is one animal per acre for beef. His calves weigh about 250 pounds when he is ready to sell.

Sell as feeder pigs

Most of the hogs sell as feeder pigs. When the market price drops, Yoachim turns to raising slaughter hogs. Selling the turkeys and ducks involves good timing.

Yoachim figures one man can handle 10 sows and 30 beef cows by involving the family and keeping costs down. Yoachim can't justify a heating system for his hogs, so he makes sure someone is always there at birth to wipe the pigs and keep them dry.

Birth, he claims, always comes at 3 months, 3 weeks, 3 days, and 3 a.m. "The key to the pig business is mortality at birth," said Yoachim. If the sow is restless, he moves it from the piglets for a few hours.

Yoachim calls himself an "old-fashioned pig farmer" and keeps his sows out on the ground. "The health of the animal is better, and the glory of the pig is to root," said Yoachim.

Doesn't 'push' animals

In the same fashion, Yoachim doesn't "push" his animals. He treats each sow as an individual, sometimes waiting up to two months beyond the breeding age to make sure she is fully mature. "What good does it do to breed the sow right at six months if it reduces the productive life of the animal?"

The key to successful farming, according to Paul, is good management and hard work. Through bartering, they have exchanged livestock for work on the farmhouse. The more than 100-year-old farmhouse had only an attic where the finished children's bedrooms are now. After tearing up five floors, the kitchen is now laid with new tile and outfitted with new, handmade cupboards.

Where there was once a pond into which a leech field had leaked, creating a swamp and an almost open sewer, the Yoachims drained, dried, leveled, laid surface drains, filled with dirt, and planted an orchard. Last year, the apple trees were harvested. This year, all 17 apple, peach, cherry, pear and apricot trees yielded fruit.

Take early retirement

"One day we may want to take early retirement, and we'll have something here," said Paul. "There is no job today that is secure. At least here we have food, and the means to raise a little income."

Generally, their ¼ -to-½ acre garden yields all the vegetables the family needs. Paul suggested a few years back that they give up the garden that year. Adam said, "We want the vegetables to take to the Troy Fair."

Through 4-H, Ann won the grand champion pig award at Troy for the past two years, and Adam has won master fitter. The two pigs Ann and Adam took to the farm show this year were the first ever from Bradford County. Working with the pigs for three days, Paul had the pigs sitting up and begging like dogs. He just loves the animals.

Respect for wisdom

Paul also shows a healthy respect for old-time wisdom. Last year the rabbits chewed all the bark off one of the Liberty apple trees. Paul was about to give up on the trees when Kathy's grandfather told him to wrap it in cow manure and secure it with burlap. Paul did. As a result, the tree produced apples this year.

"You can learn an awful lot working with mother nature," said Paul.

Cauffman Wins Star Farmer

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Prestigious awards were bestowed upon several exceptional FFA students during the 61st convention of the Pennsylvania FFA Association, held Wednesday at the state farm show.

1990 Star Farmer

The 1990 Pennsylvania Star Farmer Award went to Todd Cauffman, Star Farmer of the southcentral region and a member of Perry County's Greenwood chapter.

Todd Cauffman

Todd utilizes a computer to update his records and develop feed and health chart programs for his operation. His projects, ranging from sheep to cows, are more profitable as a result. His primary project is a 100-hog swine operation.

Another of his accomplishments was the use of an AG bag for his silage crop. Through many years of experience, Todd has learned to produce crops more efficiently. When the year ends, Todd hopes the harvest will fill the grain bins for his hog operation and Holstein cows.

Other candidates for the award included Keith Hay of Somerset County, Jeff Purring of Potter County, and Greg Harnish of Lancaster County.

1990 Star Agribusinessman Award

Michael Stauffer from the Selinsgrove FFA chapter in Snyder County was the recipient of the 1990 Star Agribusinessman Award.

Michael works on a dairy farm owned by Richard Weller, where his daily chores include feeding the herd, milking, and quality checking the milk. Michael knows the importance of good sanitation, which leads to improved milk quality.

Michael recycles by using shredded newspaper to bed the cows, keeping the cows clean, and allowing the liquid slurry system to work efficiently even in the winter. The slurry pit is pumped out semiannually.

Other contestants included Stephen Lytle of Crawford County, Gregory Huber of Lancaster County, and Todd Rabert of Cumberland County.

Taste, Convenience Impact Food Choices

ROSEMONT, ILL. — Health professionals can't ignore the value of convenience and taste when counseling patients about nutritious food choices.

This was a core message presented by Sylvia Moore, Ph.D., R.D., University of Wyoming Family Practice Residency Program, at the 11th annual conference at Patient Education, sponsored by the American Academy of Family Physicians and the Society of Teachers of Family Medicine.

Moore's discussion included a variety of practical tips to help consumers interpret the "confusing and often conflicting information they receive from friends, family and the media."

"Patients will make their own decisions. The best we can do is to get them to make good decisions," said Moore. By establishing a dialogue with the patient, evaluating current eating patterns, setting goals, writing a contract or prescription for a healthier diet and following up to reinforce change, health professionals can make nutrition a part of routine health care.

Lifestyle Factors

Often health attributes of food are far less important than taste and convenience. Moore urges health professionals to recognize that patients have established tastes and preferences that influence their diets, including their lifestyles. Pointing out that Americans eat out about four times per week, "there's no point in talking to them about cooking a full-course meal when they're going to buy one that's all set to go," she said.

The prevalence of microwave ovens in food preparation also influences patients' eating habits. "Convenience is extremely important to the consumer, so healthy foods should be easy to obtain," said Moore. She recommends that nutritionists and family physicians pay attention to the microwave foods on the market today, so they can steer their patients toward healthy convenience foods.

Interpret Data

Advertisers are using health claims as marketing tools for their products, Moore explained. The data are not always easy to interpret, especially when conflicting information is presented in the media. "It's going to be up to us to make some sort of sense of all that," she cautioned. "Fortunately, we are finding consensus areas in nutrition, and this is where we as health educators can take our stand."

Within the consensus areas are what Moore calls "f-words," which stand for fat, fiber and fitness, as well as "c-words," calcium, carbohydrates, calories and cholesterol. Although patients have probably heard of these nutritional issues, they may need more detailed information about them. "How do we get around to translating this to our patients? There's nothing wrong with the four food groups, but we need to jazz it up a bit. We need to take a new approach," Moore explained.

Be Specific

When helping patients improve their diets, Moore said, be food-specific and address one area at a time. Explain what servings and portions are. Instead of talking about whole grains categorically, suggest specifics - bran muffins or whole wheat bread, for example. Explain to patients that fruit means an apple, orange or banana, not a "fruit roll-up," which, according to Moose, is high in sugar, low in nutrients and turns up in the lunchboxes of many American children.

"Calcium is being touted and some patients may ask you about it," said Moore. "There are some non-dairy sources of calcium, but they're not major contributors to help meet calcium RDAs. Our focus should be to increase our intake of dairy products, whole grains and vegetables."

Five-Step Approach

"It's important to remember that nutrition is really a resource in daily life," said Moore. She recommends a practical, five-step approach to help patients incorporate nutritious foods into their diets.

• "Find a common ground," Moore suggested as a first step for health professionals. "Don't worry about not being an expert in nutrition. Just start talking about food." Have the patient write down what he/she eats, or simply ask them what they usually eat. Moore cautioned that in this step of the patient education process, accuracy is not the goal — developing the working relationship with the patient is.

• Evaluate current eating patterns. Check for the four food groups. This is an easy tool to use, according to Moore. See how close the patient is to getting the recommended servings of the four food groups.

• Set goals with the patient. Moore stressed that, as with any type of behavioral change, you can't expect to do too much at once.

• Write a prescription or contract with the patient. "Both parties need to have something written down, something they can focus on," Moore explained. Pamphlets and brochures describing the four food groups can also be helpful.

• Follow-up. When working with patients on making better choices in their diets, reinforce change in order for it to become permanent, said Moore.

Moore's presentation, "Teaching Healthy Food Choices: A Practical Approach," was sponsored by the NATIONAL DAIRY COUNCIL® in cooperation with the American Heart Association.

Get outstanding value in EVERY Eby trailer.

Whether it's a top-of-the-line Ruff Neck or an economical Wrangler, you know your livestock trailer is built to last if it's from Eby.

Aluminum construction is one of the main reasons these trailers are so durable and reliable. They'll never rust through or need welding. In fact, without ever being painted, an Eby livestock trailer will stay looking new for years.

Standard features make your Eby trailer a profitable investment. Extra-heavy axles, brakes, wheels and tires. Thick aluminum sheet flooring. Sturdy posts and rails. Even an aerodynamically designed front end is standard.

And, while standard features make even the economical Eby Wrangler far more than an average economy-model, we custom-build everything we make. So you tell us what you want. Choose from a long list of options. Select those features you need for your particular operation. Whether it's a Wrangler or deluxe Ruff Neck, the trailer you buy will be the trailer you need.

There are plenty of big reasons why you should plant 3429. For starters, this high-yielding, big-eared hybrid has very good stalks, exceptional test weight, and very good grain quality. Better still, it has very good late-season plant health and tolerance to most diseases, a real plus for the East. So there are plenty of big reasons to plant plenty of 3429.

3343

Ask growers who have planted 3343 about its performance, and they'll all agree — under top management, it's one of the best when it comes to yield. It's also hard to beat when it comes to other important agronomic traits. A strong seedling vigor makes it adaptable to early planting and reduced tillage situations. It also offers strong roots and stalks for dependable standability. Plant one of the best hybrids around — plant 3343.

3241 NEW

This promising new multi-purpose hybrid has what it takes to fill a variety of needs from planting to harvest. First, it starts with strong emergence and early vigor. Next, it supplies good disease tolerance and excellent staygreen. All these combine to give you a great versatile hybrid all season long.

3140

The traits bred into 3140 give you excellent staygreen and lasting late-season plant health. 3140 is a tall plant with high ear placement. Performing well at lower planting rates, it displays good ear-flex capabilities and good drought tolerance. It also tolerates most common leaf diseases including gray leaf spot. 3140 provides the right genetic package to get the job done.

Farm Show Junior Breeding Beef Show

LISA RISSER
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The high quality of animals and the showmanship of the junior competitors in last Thursday's junior beef breeding show impressed Judge Scott Schaake, a professor from the University of Kentucky. "These kids have to be commended for the fine heifers they've exhibited today," he said.

Jennifer Calderazzo won her second consecutive Farm Show junior Angus champion this year. Her prize-winning entry, JLC Personality Preference, also was the open show supreme champion beef.

Angus

The top Angus award in the 1990 Farm Show junior beef breeding competition went to a feminine heifer out of a top York County herd. Thirteen-year-old Jennifer Calderazzo, already a veteran exhibitor at local, regional, and national shows, added another grand championship to her coffers with JLC Personality Preference, a junior calf. Preference came off her win of the day before as supreme champion beef animal at the Farm Show.

Preference is a Grubbs MacKenzie daughter out of JLC Primrose Personality. The calf won first in her class at the '89 York County Fair and the '89 Atlantic National ROV Angus Show. Her dam has been shown extensively and last year alone won cow/calf classes at the 1989 Keystone International Livestock Exposition, '89 National Junior Angus Show, and the '89 Eastern National Angus Show with her natural calf, JLC Split Personality.

Nichóles Saphhires Rosalyn won Schaake's nod for Nichole High of Lititz. The spring calf is a Premier Valedectorian daughter out of Mountain Valley Sapphire Rate.

Charolais

Eddie Krevel's K Miss Enterprise took top honors in the Charolais competition. The Turcrest Roy Regent daughter is out of JS Entibarb. Krevel and the spring calf hale from Cherry Tree in Clearfield.

MCF Miss Cujette earned the reserve champion title for Greencastle youth Daren E. Statler. Miss Cujette is a spring yearling BR Cujo daughter out of MCF Clara Barton.

Polled Hereford

The big, stout summer yearling heifer that Kyle Rooker of Uniontown brought to Farm Show this year was clearly a winner, according to Schaake, who named her grand champion Polled Hereford. SDF Miss Dawn also impressed Gail Long of Centre Hall, who tapped her as the grand champion of the open show the day before. Miss Dawn, a Top MSU Knight Ryder daughter out of SDF Trishas Banner is Rooker's first Farm Show winner. Ten-year-old Rooker, who has been exhibiting cattle for three years, has garnered other top honors with Miss Dawn. She was grand champion at the '89 Eastern National junior show and the'89 Fayette County Fair. In addition, she won reserve grand champion heifer honors at the 1989 West Virginia State Fair and the 1989 Maryland State Fair.

DS MS Top Prriority 826, the second-place summer yearling was tapped for the reserve grand champion Polled Hereford. Owner Curt Stockdale, 12, of Dayton has shown her at the 1989 Penn Polled Hereford Preview show, where she was grand champion.

Stockdale has been exhibiting heifers and steers for four years as a 4-H'er. This was his first Farm Show win.

Limousin

Eighteen-year-old Brian Linebaugh's cattle showing career began one year ago at the 1989 Farm Show. His first year of exhibiting culminated in a grand champion win in this year's Farm Show. The Abbottstown youth's champion, BWLL Miss John 3X, won Schaake's nod for the top Limousin spot in the junior beef breeding competition. Schaake commended the spring calf for her great substance of bone and potential as a brood cow.

Miss John is a homebred Black Road Runner daughter out of BWLL Sally 2. She placed first in her class in the open show.

Slipping into the reserve champion Limousin spot was Jason Boyer's RC Black Beauty 24W. The junior yearling is a Black Ox daughter out of RC Miss Super Charge.

Boyer, 20, has been showing cattle at Farm Show for five years, and this was the East Berlin man's first reserve championship win at Farm Show. Beauty, however, adds this notch to her show halter. She was reserve champion in the 1989 KILE's junior beef breeding contest.

Simmental

Combining soundness of structure, broodiness, and volume, the spring yearling shown by Jamie Cowell walked away with grand champion honors in the junior Simmental show. Cowell, a four-time Farm Show exhibitor, has shown the Citation daughter to grand champion heifer titles at the '89 Keystone Classic junior show and the Fayette County Fair open show as well as second place in her class at the Eastern Regional Simmental Show last year.

Thirteen-year-old Jamie has a Simmental breeding herd of eight cows, two calves, and a bull, which won the reserve champion rosette in the 1990 Farm Show open beef breeding contest.

Claysville competitor Keith Carlisle brought out Crums Papillon, a junior calf that won the reserve champion title. The January '89 Papillon daughter comes from a herd of nine heifers and is 11-year-old Carlisle's second consecutive Fam Show champion. Crums Papillon, out of a Superstar cow, also was champion in the junior show at KILE.

Brian Linebaugh, right, led Miss John to the grand champion Limousin win. Jason Boyer and Black Beauty received the reserve grand champion rosette.

Fetrows Are Honored For Outstanding Soil and Water Conservation Practices

YORK (York Co.) — The York County Conservation District has announced that the 1989 York County Clean Water Farm Award Winner is Fetrow's Blue Knoll Farm, owned by Howard & Ralph Fetrow.

The farm, located in Conewago Township, is a 270-acre dairy and crop operation. The Fetrows milk approximately 90 cows with an additional 110 head of [redacted] calves, and dry cows. Th[redacted] produce corn, small grain and hay on 204 acres of the farm, while managing one of the top milking herds in the county.

The farm has been enrolled in the county's Chesapeake Bay Program since 1985. Practices implemented on the farm include contour stripcropping on 182 acres, an ag waste storage system, grassed waterways, pasture man[redacted]ement, crop rotations, conserva[redacted]tillage, and nutrient manage[redacted]t planning.

Since installation of their manure storage system in the fall of 1986, the Fetrow's have been developing and fine-tuning a farm nutrient management plan with the conservation district's nutrient specialist. The Fetrows utilize the nutrients in the slurry manure to satisfy nearly all of their crop nutrient requirements, carefully matching yield goals with soil and manure testing data.

The Fetrows have been presented with a large sign proclaiming their farm a "Clean Water Farm."

They are one of only six farms in the county that have received this award. The Fetrows represented the county in the state-wide awards program, where their application faced some impressive competition from the south-central region of the state. Paul Glugston, Dauphin County received the regional award.

Reach for the sky!

New Holland "Super Boom" loaders lift the payload forward as the boom rises. So you get more forward dump reach where you need it most. Extra dump reach means you can load the center of a tandem-axle dump truck.

Ask us for a demonstration. You'll see how much better a skid-steer loader can be.

In fact, one of every five tractors now sold in the Western World is an M-F. Which makes Massey-Ferguson the Western World's largest tractor manufacturer.

One of the big reasons for this popularity is the great value of the 50-90 PTO hp line of M-F 300 Series tractors.

They all give you the torque, economy and reliability of world-famous Perkins diesel engines and all the advantages of advanced Ferguson system hydraulics. Plus you get the practical features you want, like hydrostatic steering as standard equipment.

Massey-Ferguson engineers put a lot of time and effort into designing these tractors to save more of your time and effort. They're incredibly easy to operate and maintain. And they have one of the best reliability records of any tractor ever made.

Better ask your M-F dealer soon to show you why an M-F 300 Series tractor can be the best value for your hard-earned investment.

Practical choices.

Introducing the M-F 8450 and M-F 8460.

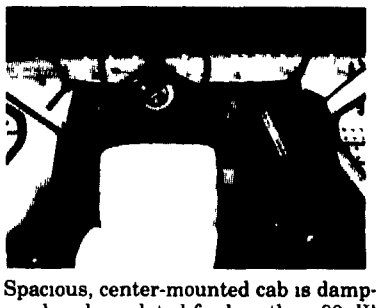
THE NEWEST NUMBERS IN COMBINING. FROM THE OLDEST NAME IN COMBINES.

The people who invented self-propelled combines now bring you two new high-capacity, conventional combines that lead the field in performance, features and peace-of-mind.

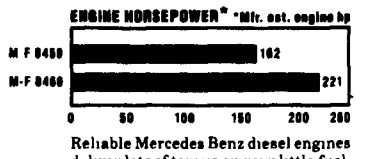
Look to a name you know and trust for the quality and features you need

- Hydrostatic drive simplifies operation
- Wide-view cab gives an unobstructed view of the cutterbar
- Electronic harvest monitor displays how every stage of the combine is performing.
- Choose 6-row corn head, rigid or flexible bottom grain headers and a windrow pickup header.
- Trained M-F dealer service people and the M-F parts network.

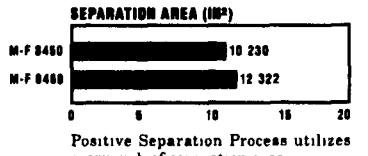
We can even arrange low-rate M-F financing, or a lease or rental plan to meet your needs. See us soon to learn more about the best values around in M-F tractors, combines and implements.



Spacious, center-mounted cab is dampened and insulated for less-than-80-dB sound levels.



Reliable Mercedes Benz diesel engines deliver lots of torque on very little fuel



Positive Separation Process utilizes every inch of separation area

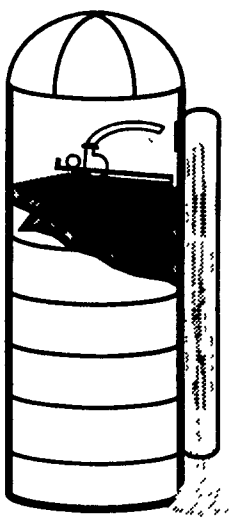
Get This!



Not This...

The newest innovation in silo unloading—from Van Dale, of course—is the DURAGLIDE Impeller System, which dramatically increases throwing power while reducing power requirements.

The DURAGLIDE paddle and wrapper inserts are slicker than glass and more durable than stainless steel.

Results in silage out the door every time—no annoying trips up the silo!

See this revolutionary system today at your local Van Dale dealers.

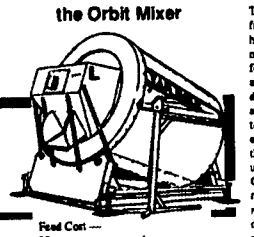
VAN DALE — Dependability through Quality

RISING FEED COSTS? VAN DALE Has The Answer!

the Orbit Mixer



Thousands of dairy farmers just like you have changed to a total mixed ration program for their dairy herds— and they're glad they did. By working with a qualified nutritionist to determine the most economical ration for their herds and by using a VAN DALE Orbit Mixer designed to blend the exact ration every time, these dairy farmers are reporting significant profit improvements through lower feed costs and/or higher milk production

Typical Savings for 60 Cow Herd

Feed Cost — 20 cents per cow per day, 60 cows x 365 x .20 = $4,380

Milk Production — 4 lbs extra per cow per day, 60 cows x 300 x 4# x .10 = $7,200

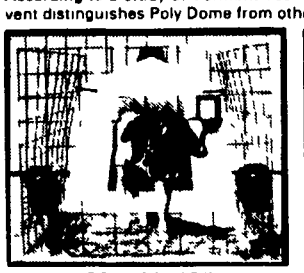
Poly Dome Means Healthier Calves.

All-Season

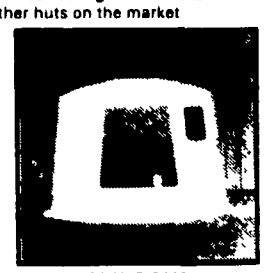
POLY DOME 60 (H) x 86 (D)

Raising calves is no easy chore! But dairymen everywhere have discovered the benefits of raising their calves in Poly Dome Calf Nurseries. In fact, Poly Dome is the first choice of dairy farmers throughout the United States and Canada. After comparing Poly Dome Calf Nurseries with modified wooden hutches, the University of Minnesota Morris found that Poly Dome calves were healthier and grew faster than calves kept in wooden huts. And Poly Dome is now being tested at several universities across the country with similar results.

According to a study at Vermont Technical College, this rotatable air vent distinguishes Poly Dome from other huts on the market.



POLY SQUARE
5 (W) x 6 6 (L) x 54 (H)



MINI DOME
72 (D) x 68 (H)

DON'T ELIMINATE PROFITS!

Poly Dome will help put money back into your pocket faster. Why risk burnt lungs, frozen ears and tails? Poly Dome will help eliminate ammonia build up. Your calves will be healthier and they'll grow faster. Your heifers will be part of your money making milking herd sooner. And with three different dome styles to choose from, you can select the one that works best for you. Poly Dome, Poly Square or Mini Dome.

DAIRYMEN,

Are you.....

1. Short on hay?
2. Frustrated with high hay prices?
3. Lacking a good quality hay?

If you are, then you need Master Mix® SWEET BULK 'N FLAKES.

Master Mix® SWEET BULK 'N FLAKES is a specially designed product to add bulk, palatability, texture and nutritional quality to grain-concentrate mixtures.

The major ingredient in SWEET BULK 'N FLAKES is Soybran® flakes, which is the outer covering of the soybean, which has been cooked under controlled conditions. The resulting product is a thin flake with unusual nutritional qualities, such as high digestibility.

The fiber digestibility of any feedstuff fed to dairy cows is an important nutritional consideration. Feedstuffs with high cellulose digestibility are desirable in that they add more energy to the total ration along with high levels of fiber. The following table shows this digestibility of soybran flakes in relation to other common bulky ingredients.

Master Mix®

Cellulose Digestibility of Soybran Flakes
Soybran Flakes	95%
Beet Pulp	89%
Ground Corncobs	49%
Cottonseed Hulls	25%

Master Mix®

One pound of SWEET BULK 'N FLAKES replaces 1½ pounds of hay.

Here are a few comments from dairymen who are using SWEET BULK 'N FLAKES.

"I bought a load of hay for $148 and the cows didn't go for it. I decided to push 5 lbs. of Sweet Bulk 'N Flakes to my fresh cows and they came up 200 lbs."

"Since I began feeding Sweet Bulk 'N Flakes at noon instead of hay, I have picked up over 100 lbs. of milk per day."

"I know what I get every time I order Sweet Bulk 'N Flakes and I don't have nearly as much money tied up as if I was buying a six-ton load of hay."

Nubian Doe Does It Big Goats Close Out Farm Show 1990

VERNON ACHENBACH, JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A two-year-old Nubian dairy goat, owned by Lorraine Yankovich, of Emmaus, was named Best Doe in Show during the last event of the 1990 Farm Show.

While other exhibitors were loading their animals into trailers and trucks and heading out on the highway home, dairy goat exhibitors continued their annual state event in a mostly-deserted, large arena of the Farm Show complex.

As soon as Yankovich's doe, Jasper Hollow Bonzai Haiku, was named overall best of the various goats breeds, maintenance personnel began flipping off the lights.

Several of the exhibitors said they are used to being ushered out alone; breeding and showing dairy goats is still a growing activity in Pennsylvania. They say their animals don't have the draw that accompanies the draft horses, dairy cattle, swine, sheep and beef.

Goat judge Anya Cutter, from Indiana, said, "the other animals are more commercial. Most of the goat breeders are hobbyists, though some do have commercial goat milk businesses."

Goat milk is used to drink and to make butter and cheese, because of its high milk-fat content. Goat exhibitors report they are getting about 5.5 percent milk-fat from their goats' milk. Dairy cows produce about 3.5 percent milk-fat.

But, according to Cutter, an affection for the animal is more important than its economic relevance to society. In other words, "you have to love goats" in order to raise them and show them, she said.

Yankovich said the Japanese name for her winning doe is traced to its actions and breeding.

"She's the daughter of Jasper Hollow Kibonsai Sushi. Haiku is the word for a form of Japanese poetry. I think she's poetry in motion," Yankovich said.

Judge Cutter, a national champion and goat shower, said the offerings from Pennsylvania were "good, although it's difficult to judge for dairy when dry goats are mixed in."

Cutter also said that she had to gain her composure before starting to judge. She said she was slightly taken back when she recognized some of the Pennsylvania exhibitors. It turns out she was about to judge some goats owned by people who were recognized goat judges in their own right.

However, Cutter said she had no problem concentrating on her job once she started the grading process.

Yankovich's doe beat out five other does for the best of show honors.

The top doe of the Alpine breed was Udder Way Riche, owned by Pat Lowe, from Kempton, Lehigh County.

But the Alpine competitions were not settled as easily as with the other breeds.

In dairy goat competitions, goats are also judged according to a point system. Previous wins register points called "legs" and, in this case, Lowe's goat was the standing Alpine champion.

Other exhibitors can challenge the standing champ, depending on how well they are doing. And at this year's Farm Show, the gauntlet was thrown.

Pat Lowe admires the conformation and milking qualities that keeps her Alpine champion on top in competitions.

Janet Shepherd, with the grand champion doe of the recorded grade breeds, listens to judge's explanations of why the Nubian entry is taking top honors.

However, it wasn't Benner who showed Macaroni Mist. Others stepped in her stead. Benner, 11, became ill before the Alpine breed judging began and had to go home.

Anne and Fred Leader keep Benner's goat on their farm. At the last minute, Anne stepped in to show Macaroni Mist and take the win for grand champ doe.

Now holding a grand champion doe, the Leaders decided to face-off Lowe's goat in center ring — the winner would represent the breed in the final best of show contest.

In the LaMancha breed, grand champion doe was Kidding Hills Snow Dreamer, owned by Clarence Eschbach, of Bethel. Snow Dreamer was also champion senior doe.

Edward Sollers, from Alexandria RD 1, took home a grand champion doe rosette and a senior doe ribbon with wins from his two-year-old purebred entry, A Country Way P Dawns Special.

The sixth doe to make the final all-breeds contest was the grand champion doe of the recorded grades, four-year-old J L's Noel, owned by Janet Shepherd, of Newburg. Noel also was named senior champion.

UDIA Names Chairman

COLUMBUS, OHIO — The United Dairy Industry Association recently promoted its Mid-East president to national chairman, according to an official publication for the association and Federal Order 36 Advertising and Promotion Agency.

Herman Brubaker, an active dairy farmer for 33 years in West Alexandria, Ohio, took over duties as UDIA chairman late last year during a board reorganizational meeting held in Nashville. He replaces J. Douglas Webb, who had declined to seek another term.

Brubaker has served on Mid-East's board and the board of UDIA since 1981. In 1983 he was elected president of Mid-East. He had previously been on the board of the Dayton-area dairy council.

In 1984, Brubaker was appointed to the newly organized National Dairy Promotion and Research Board (NDPRB). In May, he will have served six years with NDPRB and will not be elgible to continue service.

Since 1985, he has also served as president of Milk Marketing Inc., based in Strongsville, Ohio, and for five years prior, he served as its vice president. Before that, he has served twice on the board of the MMI predecessor organization, Miami Valley Milk Producers.

In addition to his current positions, he is a director and member of the Executive Committee for the National Milk Producers Federation, where he had chaired a committee to study the unification of dairy promotion organizations. Since 1978, he has been a director with the Ohio Dairy Farmers Federation.

FARM MANAGEMENT

TOO LATE FOR INVENTORY?

BY ROLAND P. FREUND
Farm Management Agent

When the flurry of excitement over Christmas and the farm show subsides, it will be time to get back to the real world. For farmers, this means completing the crop production cycle for 1989 and being prepared for the rigors of the season. This involves the important task of taking the end-of-the-year inventory.

What should we inventory? Almost everything on the farm should be inventoried annually. An inventory is a vital tool to help us with decision-making. Knowing how we can use this information might help us to carefully take stock of the following:

1. Crops. It is important to know the 1989 production and value of each crop. Estimates based on the neighbor's 5-acre yield can be very misleading. What's sold or is in the storage "bin" is what counts. This accurate measurement could enable us to calculate each enterprise's contribution to farm profits. Planning cash-crop sales can only be done when we know what is in inventory. Likewise, livestock farmers must have this information to plan feeding strategies and programs.

2. Livestock. Nose counts are not very useful unless they are combined with a market value and inventoried by species, age, and production groups. This simplifies the planning of the feeding program for winter and beyond. Getting the groups inventoried helps us check with production and breeding records to determine reproductive performance and efficiency, death losses, breeding schedule, planned sales, future production, and cash flow.

3. Machinery. Inventory and valuation of all equipment may be convenient at the time it is winterized or placed in storage. This helps managers to plan a maintenance and repair program and also a machinery replacement schedule.

4. Buildings and Land Improvements. Taking careful stock of building and land values will help plan their maintenance, improvement, or replacement.

5. Land. Listing owned and rented land areas by soil class and productivity groups will help with the planning of crop enterprises. Real estate values should be adjusted every few years to reflect the local market, especially if this information is to be used for estate planning.

6. Labor Resources. Taking stock of the family and the hired labor resources should be done annually. Evaluation of job performance and management ability should be the basis for salary and benefit adjustments. It might also reveal the need for restructuring or reorganizing the work force for more harmonious and productive relationships.

In addition to the uses of specific inventory information as already discussed, there are other valuable management applications. These include:

a. Thanksgiving. Particularly after many people have endured huge losses in floods, hurricanes, and earthquakes, we need to take stock of our assets and recognize them as our blessings.

b. Business Analysis. All business analyses are only as useful and as accurate as the inventories and production data that goes into them.

c. Partnership Balance Sheet. It is important that every partnership prepare the partnership balance sheet annually. This simplifies dissolution and sets a value on all partnership assets once a year.

d. Cash-Flow Planning. Basing 1990's cash flow on what happened in 1989 is futile. To be accurate, cash flow planning must begin with the inventories and continue with the breeding schedule of livestock and the planned cropping program.

e. Estate Planning. From an accurate inventory and current valuation of all business and personal assets, much of the information can be gleaned for basic estate planning. It is important, as family and economic circumstances and tax laws change, that families regularly revise their estate plans. Watch for estate planning programs. This winter many counties, particularly in South Central Pennsylvania, will be conducting basic estate planning programs. Meetings and publications are available on an equal opportunity basis, covering topics such as settling the estate, planning the estate, and business transfer arrangements. Contact your county Extension office for further details.

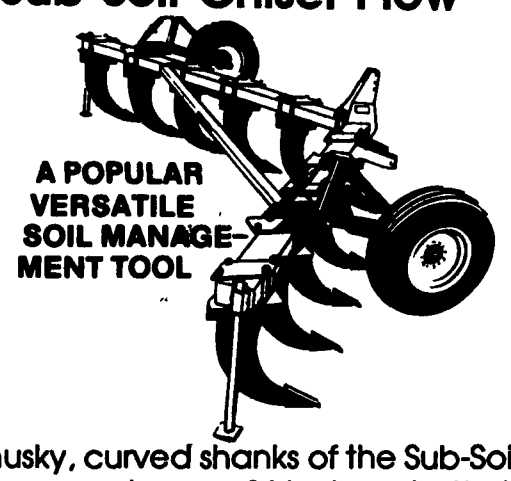
Sub Soil Chisel Plow



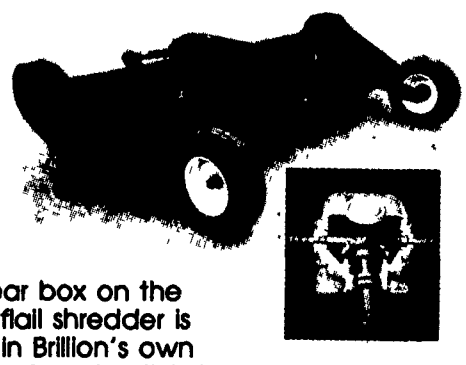
The husky, curved shanks of the Sub-Soiler dig down as deep as 16 inches, shattering compacted layers of plow sole and lifting the hardpan while it is being broken. Once the soil is opened, moisture gets down to the newly created loose soil; root systems are no longer restricted and better drainage results.

What makes the BRILLION Sub-Soiler better? Check these features: hefty shank mountings (shear pin protection) with lateral adjustment; replaceable wear strips to prolong shank life; rugged, wide chisel points; cross braces on all models for extra strength and optional gauge wheels. Available in two frame sizes, four models - with 5, 7, 9 or 11 shanks.

Soil Groomer

Main illustration shows 12-foot Soil Groomer with spike drag harrows. Inset photo shows new disc arrangement with 18" dia. discs that move soil inward to reduce ridging. Scrapers are adjustable.

Flail Shredders



The gear box on the Brillion flail shredder is made in Brillion's own modern foundry. It is then assembled with husky machine cut gears and tapered roller bearings. Input and output shafts are 1¾" diameter. The gear box is designed to match the horsepower of large tractors... to keep going when others heat up and quit.

PALTECH Zone Station computer automatically opens and closes vents, based on temperature and humidity levels in the swine or poultry housing. The system is easy to use and ventilates houses up to 76 feet wide.

Computer Controls Poultry, Swine Ventilation Systems

LITITZ, PA (Lancaster Co.) — Northeast Agri Systems has been selected regional distributor of the PALTECH line of computer-controlled natural ventilation systems for poultry and swine housing.

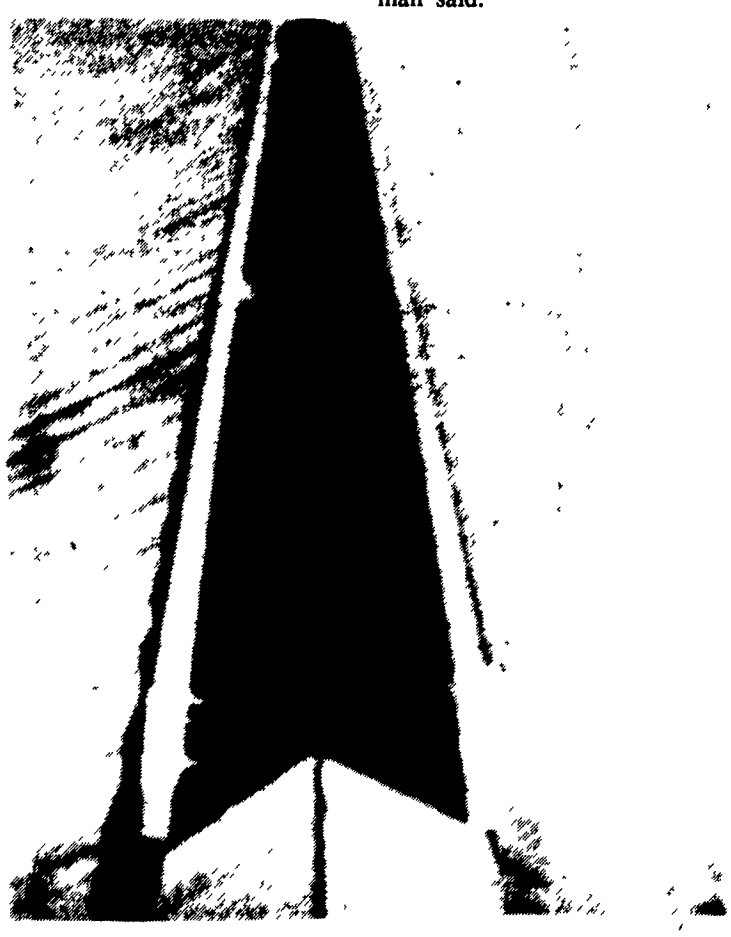
Pals, located in Wilmar, Minnesota, manufactures insulated ridge vents and side panels that are automatically controlled by the PALTECH Zone Station. The Zone Station, designed and manufactured by Pals, is a small dedicated computer mounted inside the swine or poultry building. After the Zone Station senses temperature and humidity, the device opens or closes sections of ridge vent and side panels to maintain temperature and optimum air quality.

Because the PALTECH system uses the natural buoyancy of warm air, no ventilation fans are needed. Moist, contaminated air is removed from the center of the house by the PALTECH ridge vent and then replaced by fresh air coming in the PALTECH side vents.

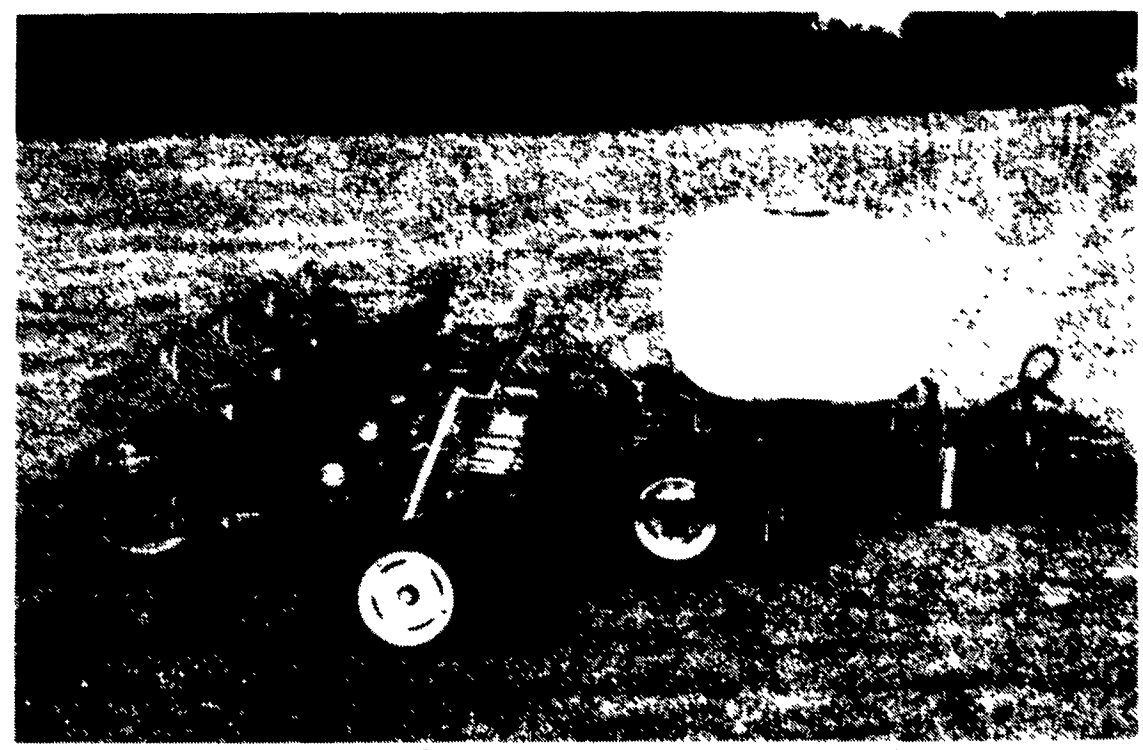
The PALTECH system is able to ventilate extremely wide houses up to 76 feet wide. The grower simply has to enter his target temperature and humidity. The Zone Station computer does the rest, opening and closing ridge vents and side doors and turning on or off heaters to maintain ideal atmospheric conditions.

David Newman, vice president of Northeast Agri Systems, said PALTECH is the first natural ventilation system that any farmer can understand and operate without knowing "computerese" or being a master mechanic.

"All PALTECH equipment is operated by solenoids and air cylinders that are controlled by the Zone Station," said Newman. "When the station gets too hot or humid, the ridge vent opens to let out the bad air and the side doors open to let in the good air." Both the ridge vent and side doors are insulated and weather sealed. "This and the elimination of side wall fans will save feed, electricity, and fuel all year round," Newman said.



These housing vents are opened or closed automatically by the PALTECH Zone Station.



Mechanical Transplanter Co. introduces the all new Model 800 4HF. This is a new deluxe heavy duty 4-row trailer to be used with any of Mechanical's High Performance Float Wheel Direct Drive units. Heavy wall tubular steel is used to increase strength and durability. The bolt together design allows for adjustment in wheel treads and row widths. Each trailer comes with a 500 gallon poly tank, 11.00 x 15 tires, and a new heavy duty 4 x 7 toolbar system.

Chemgro Club Winners Announced

EAST PETERSBURG (Lancaster Co.)— The annual Chemgro Farmer's Meeting was held recently at the Country Table Restaurant with 313 people in attendance.

Woody Funk, president of Chemgro, recognized the Chemgro Club 200 winners for 1989.

Mike Fleming, from American Cyanamid, promoted the use of Prowl on lambsquarter, velvetleaf, and pigweed. The use of persuit as a post-emergent spray on soybeans was highly recommended. Mike also covered the use of soil insecticides on corn.

Chemgro's Seed Division manager, Wayne Walbert, spoke about Chemgro's lineup of hybrid corn, soybean, and alfalfa seeds. Walbert reported a possible shortage of alfalfa seed and increased seed orders in a seven-state area.

Duane Hobbs, who represented Dupont, spoke on Classic and Pinnacle, which gave outstanding post-emergent weed control on soybeans this year. Harmony Extra herbicide for wheat and barley was also discussed. Hobbs also introduced Accent and Ally, two new products which may be available this year.

Jim Bowersox, Chemgro's Sales Manager, spoke on the role of sulfur in agronomic cropping programs. He also covered the advantages of 30 percent nitrogen and Super N in formulating environmentally sound fertility programs. Bowersox concluded with a slide program showing Chemgro's new pesticide storage and loading facilities. He also pointed out safety precautions and products that can be used by the farmers. Numerous appearances by Buford Gunkle kept the meeting light and lively. Buford was Chemgro's way of helping the farmer remember many agrichemical uses and safety tips in a humorous way.

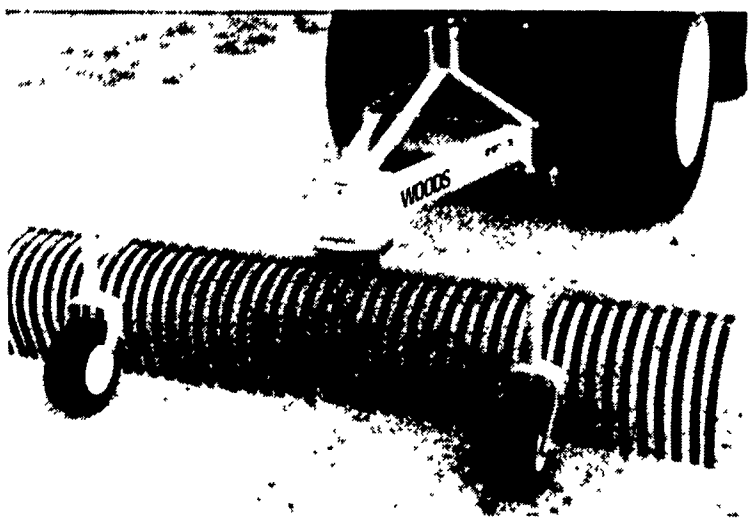
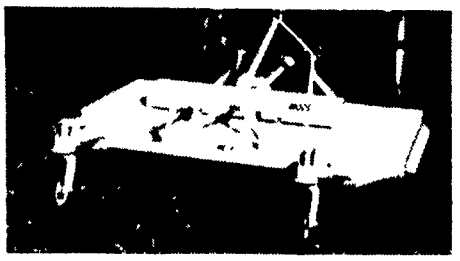
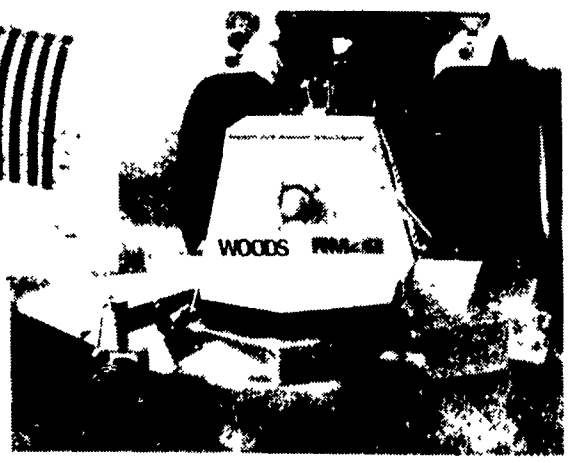
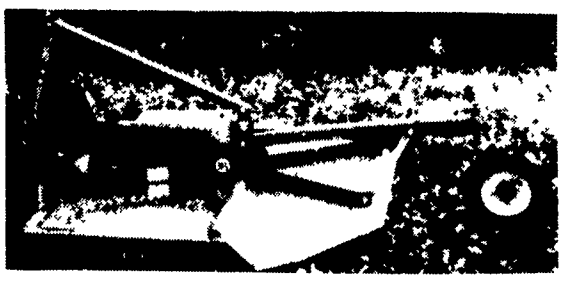
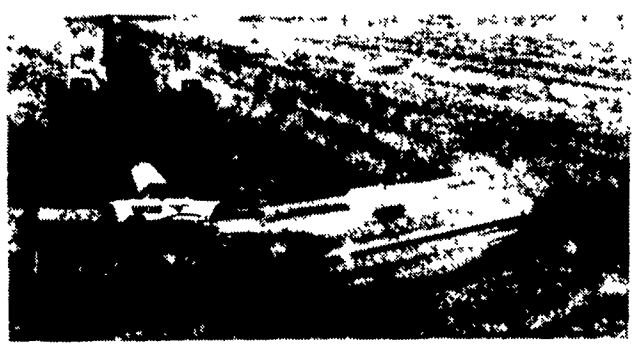
One tree doesn't make a Woods











Nor does just one product. That's why when Woods introduced the world's first successful tractor powered rotary shredder back in 1947, they didn't rest on their laurels. Instead, they continued to apply outstanding engineering expertise producing equipment packed with performance, reliability and value. The results: a line-up of over 50 different products including mowers, cutters, rear scraper blades, backhoes and specialty machines. The best that money can buy.

NATURAL KILLER CELLS IN POULTRY

H. S. Siegel
Department of Poultry Science
The Pennsylvania
State University

Several diseases of poultry, although they are transmitted by viruses, produce tumor-like lesions that appear in the vital organs or in the nervous system. These kinds of diseases are called neoplastic diseases. Examples of these are Marek's Disease and the Avian Leukosis Complex.

In other diseases of poultry, such as Infectious Bursal Disease (Gumboro Disease) in chickens, important parts of the immune system are affected so that the ability of the bird to respond properly to other diseases is reduced.

At Penn State we are conducting basic research on the immune system of the fowl in order to better understand its function in the bird. We have a particular interest in the natural killer (NK) cells — cells that attack tumors — in birds.

Recently, technicians and students in one of our department laboratories were able to isolate and describe these NK cells of the chicken. Using an electron microscope, the researchers have been able to describe the type, size, and appearance of the tumor-attacking cell, the manner in which it attaches to and destroys the tumor cell, and the time required to perform this activity. This is the first time these cells have been so defined in birds.

In addition, the researchers have been able to show that certain hormones, which are known to stimulate the immune system, have a specific effect on the activity of the NK cells. At least one of these hormones, prolactin, increases the activity of the NK cells against tumors.

This kind of research does not always seem relevant to the day-to-day problems confronting egg, broiler, and turkey producers. However, over the long term, these results will affect how we provide effective treatment to prevent or reduce disease in our flocks.

Ethanol-Blended Fuel Saves Money

ST. LOUIS, MO — An ethanol-blended fuel in your car this winter can actually save you money, both at the station and repair shop, while lowering carbon monoxide emissions.

Ethanol, a corn alcohol, absorbs excess moisture in automobile fuel lines, preventing the lines from freezing and cracking in cold temperatures.

"A can of gas line antifreeze at $1.50 would add 10 cents per gallon to the pump price of a 15-gallon purchase," said Randy Cruise, National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) vice president of market development. "However, a 15-gallon purchase of ethanol-blended fuel would provide the same results with higher octane for only the pump price."

Motor vehicles produce about two-thirds of all carbon monoxide and about 40 percent of all ozone pollution. Ethanol boosts octane levels and helps lower the carbon monoxide emissions from most cars by more than 25 percent. In 1989, more than 100 American cities exceeded federal clean air standards. About 150 million Americans are subjected to unhealthy levels of air pollution every year.

Cruise said that filling up with ethanol also strengthens our investment in an American renewable resource. Through the years, more than five billion gallons of pure ethanol have been produced. Average corn prices have risen 15 to 20 cents per bushel as a direct result of ethanol production. More than 340 million bushels of corn were used to produce 850 million gallons of ethanol in 1988.

Hoffman Alfalfas Top Producers In NYSF and GC Trials

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.)— Hoffman Seed proprietary alfalfas were top finishers in the New York State Forage and Grasslands Council (NYSF and GC) yield trials. Varieties included Emerald, Maxim, and Funk's G-2852.

Out of 16 competitive varieties, Emerald and Maxim finished second and third in Trial B results averaged from 1986-88. Emerald's yield mean average was 105, while Maxim averaged 104. In 1989 Trial B plots, G-2852 registered a yield mean of 112.

Forage yields were taken at 12 percent moisture, with each variety being replicated 5 or 6 times in each of three locations. The trials are conducted annually by the Forage Breeding Project at Cornell University in cooperation with NYSF and GC.

Hoffman Seeds markets a variety of farm seed products for eastern agriculture, including Funk's G-Hybrid corn.

Billy Leib's Champ Breed Rambouillet Wins Wool Breed Supreme Champion

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Rambouillet class sheep were the primary breed winners in the wool judging competition on Thursday night at the farm show.

The Leib family — Bob, Suzie, and Billy — swept the major awards, winning Rambouillet premier exhibitor, breeder, and all grand and reserve Rambouillet sheep championships, along with the supreme wool championship.

"We have an excellent breed, and we were careful in how the sheep were selected and bred," said Suzie Leib. "The fleece have few flaws, and it is difficult to get fine fleece."

The Leibs have been raising sheep for 24 years, and raising Rambouillets for about 10 years. "The Rambouillet is the backbone of the American sheep industry, and we were careful in breed selection, primarily for the sheep's meat and muscle," said Bob Leib.

Judge James Elphick of Arlington, Wisconsin admitted to having a "hard decision" to make, "especially between the ewes and rams in the wool breeds for the supreme champ." In the end, Billy Leib, 9, won for his yearling ewe, which had won the junior sheep breeding championship Wednesday night.

"It was a lot of work to bring her up," said Billy. "We put a lot of feeding and care into her."

The Bow family — Ben, Mary, Melanie, and Benjamin — display their premier champion awards and their Corriedale grand champion ram.

Corriedale

Melanie Bow, 21, had never shown her Corriedale at any previous show. The fuzzy, deeply tan ram became the Corriedale grand champ, as a result of careful breeding and a lot of care.

"He is the result of about six years of selection, and we are only now getting the results," said Melanie. "We picked him out of 50 lambs, which was a good bit of luck."

The Bow family — Melanie, her father Ben, and her mother Mary — have been farming for about 21 years. Not only did they capture the grand champion Corriedale, but also won the champion Corriedale ewe, exhibitor, and breeder awards.

"She's a good showgirl," said Mary Bow, Melanie's mother. "We've been hard at work from eight this morning to almost five this evening, trimming away. We gave the sheep a great deal of care."

Judge Elphick was impresssed with the rams exhibited in this class. "The front feet and the way they stand are exceptional," he said. "But the champion is the most golden of all the rams, and has the nicest fleece."

The reserve champion Corriedale went to Mike Bowman, 14, for his ram, George. The Bowmans have been farming for two years, and have exhibited at local fairs.

George has placed at the Reading Fair and was champion at the Kutztown Fair.

"The sheep ate a lot, including lots of grain," said Mike. "But I think he's settled down in his old age."

Corriedale champion ewe was won by Kim Hopple of Mechanicsburg.

Emil Mellott won the Corriedale ewe reserve championship. Emil has been farming "a good number of years," and his ewe placed at the Cookpoint Fair. Emil feeds the

The Leib family — Bob, Suzie, and their son Billy — captured the 1990 sheep wool breed supreme championship with their Rambouillet yearling ewe Thursday night at the farm show. On Wednesday, Billy, 9, won the junior sheep breeding championship with the yearling ewe, which went on to win the supreme championship. "The Rambouillet is the backbone of the American sheep industry, and we were careful in breed selection, primarily for the sheep's meat and muscle," said Bob. Suzie, his wife, was happy with the breed. "The fleece has few flaws, and it is difficult to get fine fleece." Standing, left to right, are Julie Maust, Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool queen; Boyd Wolff, state secretary of agriculture; Billy Leib; and Billy's friend, Kelly Ziegler. Photo by Andy Andrews ewe a certain feed and lots of "good grain and hay."

Merino

Robert McCrumb, who has been farming for, as he said, "as long as I can remember," won the Merino champion ram. His family has raised sheep for 35 years, and has four other breeds, including Pole Dorsets, Horn Dorsets, Shropshires and, of course, Merinos.

The McCrumbs won "everything" at last year's farm show "except champion ewe," said Robert. But this time they nearly swept the awards. Their ram won the grand champion Merino at the farm show. Previously, the ram won at the Canfield County, Ohio fair championship.

"We maintain good breeding and good blood lines to raise our sheep right," said Robert. "The Merino is our premier breed."

The judge agreed, and said the Merinos showed "good fleece and balance, overall, was excellent."

Merino champion ewe was won by Barbara Falvey of Bedford, Pennsylvania.

Rambouillet

Bob and Suzie Leib operate Shepherd's Crooks Farm in Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania. They have been breeding sheep for 24 years and have raised Rambouillets, one of their primary breeds, for about 10 years.

But the center of attention for the show was on Billy, 9, who won junor breeding grand championship and the wool breed supreme championship with his Rambouillet yearling ewe.

"The ewe had the right parents and the right stock," said Billy. He has been raising sheep "all his life," he said, and is really excited about the award.

"We raise the Rambouillet for commercial use, and it is hard to breed it for meat and muscle, since in the East we really pamper our sheep," said Billy's father, Bob.

"We have an excellent breed, and we were careful in how the sheep were selected and bred," said Suzie. The Leibs also raise Columbia sheep.

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

United Dairy Services Encourages Joint Effort

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Edward D. Anna, president of United Dairy Services, expressed concern regarding the United States Department of Agriculture decision to lower the federal milk support purchase program by 50 cents per hundredweight effective January 1, 1990.

A support price of $9.88 per hundredweight for 3.5% milk in 1990 is not justified, Anna said. The dairy industry is short of nonfat dry milk and cheese foods and the government has not purchased the products since 1988, and in all likelihood won't purchase them in 1990, according to Anna.

Expectations by UDS are that dairy farmers milk income in 1990 is to average no more than 1989's $13.08 per hundredweight for 3.5-percent milk at Federal Order 2's 201-210-mile zone.

Like everyone else's costs, farmer milk production costs will increase in 1990 and their net profit if any will be back to 1988 levels, Anna said.

"Farmers were just beginning to see the opportunity to earn a fair return on their investment and labor," Anna said. "They need to know that they will be able to earn a living milking cows if we expect them to continue to supply Northeast consumers with their needed locally produced quality dairy foods."

United Dairy Service's position is that it is important for farmers to join together and enlist the support of milk processors and consumers to work toward shopping any further reductions in the Northeast milk price, if a viable agricultural industry is to be maintained.

Warren Co. Extention To Hold Meeting

WARREN (Warren Co.)— The Warren County Cooperative Extension will hold their 1989 annual meeting on Tuesday, January 23, 1990 at 8:00 p.m. in th emain courtroom of the Warren County courthouse.

Included in the business meeting this year will be the election of four new directors to the Warren County Extension board, a review of the state's educational initiatives for the 1990s, and highlights of the 1989 extension year.

The evening's program will feature a presentation by Mrs. Julie Swift on adolescent drug and alcohol prevention. Swift is from Warren County's department of human services, drug and alcohol prevention unit. Fruit Growers Care Exhibit Takes First At Farm Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "Fruit Growers Care About the Environment and Food Safety Through Integrated Pest Management" was the theme of the educational exhibit placed by the Adams County Fruitgrowers Association at the state farm show.

The exhibit won first place in the county exhibit class and was designed and prepared by Kay and Bradley Hollabaugh of Biglerville, assisted by growers and supporting agency personnel.

"Managing pests by a variety of methods to create a safer environment and produce a more economical and safe food supply" was the message presented on the backdrop for the exhibit. Photographs of the major insect pests — the mites, leafrollers, and aphids — was followed by a listing of the benefits of integrated pest management. Photos of the tools of IPM including predator insects, pheremone traps, and orchard scouting to monitor the seasonal development of orchard pests, were listed.

Twenty exhibitors from seven Pennsylvania counties prepared a total of 509 individual entries for the fruit display at the 1990 farm show, an increase of 40 over 1989. This included 65 entries by six Adams County growers and 182 entries by Franklin County growers.

The practical tractor for the practical farmer.

The world's most demanding farmers prefer M-F 300 Series tractors.

These popular 50-90 PTO hp tractors are a big reason why Massey-Ferguson is the Western World's largest tractor manufacturer. In fact, one in every five tractors now sold in the Western World is an M-F.

What makes Massey-Ferguson the practical choice?

An M-F 300 Series tractor gives you all the benefits of advanced Ferguson system hydraulics, for one thing. Plus the unmatched lugging power and fuel economy of a world-famous Perkins diesel engine. And with Massey-Ferguson, you get hydrostatic steering as standard equipment, not as an option.

Today's tractor buyers want quality and reliability, but in a package that stresses function and ease of operation. They want a tractor that's easy to service, inexpensive to operate and proves to be the best return for their hard-earned investment.

See your M-F dealer soon to find out why more and more farmers are discovering that an M-F 300 Series tractor is the answer to their demands for something more practical.

Pick the tractor sized for your operations.

Manure Management Helps Environment

BY RICHARD BARCZEWSKI
Extension Ag Agent
University of Delaware

People are becoming environmentally aware more than ever before. Unfortunately, being more environmentally responsible sometimes means having to change.

Why is all this necessary? Until now, manure has been treated only as a waste. Farmers knew that it helped the soil to apply manure, but little if any consideration was given to the nutrient composition of the manure. In addition, newer manure spreaders have been developed which enable producers to uniformly apply manure at low rates.

In turn, this led to a change in the way we look at manure. Manure offers us an opportunity to cut our fertilizer costs. When analyzed and properly applied, manure can replace some or in certain cases all of the commercial fertilizer that would normally be applied. At the same time, when properly applied at the proper rates, the amount of nitrogen leaching into the groundwater can be minimized.

The keys to proper manure usage are evaluating the manure for nutrient composition, testing the soil for nutrient needs for the crop to be planted, and calibrating the manure spreader for application of the proper rates.

We owe it to ourselves and future generations to protect the environment from anything that can be harmful, including excessive fertilization and the improper use of pesticdes, to name a few concerns. This means we have to change.

Currently, very few producers are actually testing their manure to determine the nutrient content. Unfortunately, manure testing is not cheap unless you realize the fertilizer savings.

Many farmers test soil, and along with setting realistic yield goals, would have no problem matching crop needs to those present in the manure. Calibration of manure spreaders to apply the necessary rates of manure is the final step in proper manure usage. Extension agents have the information and resources available to assist in these efforts.

These changes in approach may take us all a little longer to get used to, but ultimately we'll have the satisfaction of knowing we are operating in the best way.

MMI Members Get $3.2 Million

STRONGSVILLE, OH — More than $3 million has been returned to members of the dairy marketing cooperative, Milk Marketing Inc. of Strongsville, Ohio, through their equity redemption program.

The recently issued December, 1989 redemption represented the March allocation. Each spring, MMI notifies its membership about their annual equity investments via allocations. Currently those allocations are being redeemed in cash to members on a 10-year rotating basis, subject to the discretion of MMI's board of directors.

The December redemption was a special occasion, marking the first time MMI has paid a full 12-month redemption to current members of MMI. Last December, a partial six-month redemption was issued to MMI members totaling $2,042,000.

"The association's 10-year revolving policy on equity redemptions, adopted by MMI's board of directors at the 1978 merger that formed MMI, is right on schedule," said Merle Koppenhafer, MMI director of administration and finance.

Previously, the initial phase of the 10-year redemption plan called for MMI to return equity invested by members of MMI's predecessor cooperatives.

In 1987, this phase of MMI's redemption rotation was successfully completed returning more than $18 million to predecessor patrons.

According to Koppenhafer, since the plan's implementation, MMI has redeemed more than $20 million to its producer members.

MMI is a 7,000-member dairy farmer-owned cooperative encompassing an eight state midwestern area including Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Michigan, New York, Kentucky, Maryland and West Virginia. Last year MMI marketed more than 3.9 billion pounds or 3,930 million gallons of milk.

Huntingdon County Fair Hosts 4-H and FFA Sheep Show

HUNTINGDON (Huntingdon Co.) — Brad and Brandy Horning starred in the recent Huntingdon County Fair 4-H and FFA Sheep Show. They are the children of Bruce and Phyllis Horning of RD 3, Huntingdon. Both have flocks of Hampshire and Southdown Sheep.

Brad, 14, showed the grand champion market lamb. His sister Brandy, 11, showed the reserve champion.

Penn's Pride Meats of Martinsburg purchased Brad Horning's 124-pound grand champion for $7.50 per pound. John and Barb Eastman of McDonald's purchased Brandy Horning's 112-pound reserve grand champion for $6.00 per pound.

Brad had pledged to give 10 percent of the money he earned from his championship animal to the newly established scholarship in the memory of Herman Purdy, a noted livestock man and the former owner of Huntingdon Farms. The scholarship will go to a 4-H and FFA member seeking higher education. To further support the scholarship, the Eastmans returned the reserve champion to the auction ring. RCMA Names Member Relations Manager

BATAVIA, NY — David B. Eyster has been appointed manager of membership relations for the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency (RCMA).

Eyster has worked for RCMA since May of 1988, when he was appointed Pennsylvania membership coordinator. The native of State College worked for the Pennsylvania Farmers Association as a regional organization director in northeastern and south central Pennsylvania prior to joining RCMA.

He is a 1983 graduate of Pennsylvania State University, where he received a bachelor's degree in agricultural business management.

RCMA is a dairy bargaining cooperative representing 22,000 dairy farmers throughout the Northeast. In order to supplement farmers' incomes, RCMA negotiates a premium on behalf of its members. The premium is additional money above the goevernment-established price of milk. RCMA collects the premium from milk handlers and distributes it to its dairy farmer members. In its first two full years of operation, RCMA distributed nearly $67 million to farmers.

"I see the need for stable, reasonable prices for dairy farmers," Eyster said. "Farmers have a right to know the price of milk won't drop below a certain level in order to make necessary business decisions.

"RCMA is the leading bargaining organization working for better prices for producers in the Northeast," he added. "Farmers may be receiving high prices in the marketplace now, but RCMA is designed to help them receive valuable premiums when prices drop."

Eyster views his new role with RCMA as building a stronger relationship between the organization and its members by maintaining close contact with the membership. He coordinates the work of the RCMA field staff.

"The strength of the organization is its members," Eyster said. "The field staff and I will work to keep them informed and to answer questions members might have about their organization."

He and his wife, Holly, reside in Shermans Dale.

For more information about RCMA, call Eyster at 717-582-8123 or the RCMA office at 1-800-634-3723.

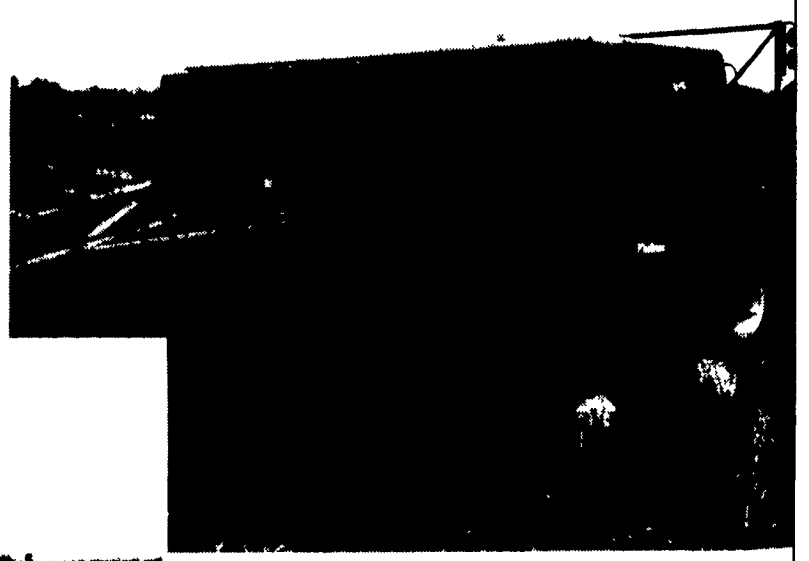
From no-till to clean fields, your best soybean drill is a John Deere

In no-till, the John Deere 750 Drill is your ideal soybean drill. It adapts to handle no-till conditions with adjustable down pressure for each disk opener. You can cut through the toughest sod and residue, and still get excellent seeding accuracy. And each disk opener has a depth gauge wheel for outstanding control of seed placement, even in dips and rolling fields. See us for a true no-till 750 Drill today.



In cleaner fields, the John Deere 450 End-Wheel Drill gives you more of everything you liked about the 8000 Series The 450 features more penetrating force, the capacity for more efficient planting, and left-side adjustments for easier operation. Add optional depth-gauging wheels and you'll have unequalled drilling accuracy. Let us help you fit the fields you're farming, and drill seed home with the John Deere 450 Drill.

High Performance Cows Need High Octane Feed

George F. W. Haenlein
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — We take for granted that if we drive a Cadillac we need to put high-octane gas in the tank to keep performance high and prevent the cylinders from knocking.

What about our 1990 dairy cows?

They are not the Volkswagen models of earlier years, so can we get by with "regular gas," that is pasture, hay, lots of silage and a simple home-mix supplement? Today we milk cows at a level of performance that far exceeds the "Volkswagen" level.

When I took over the University of Delaware dairy herd in 1957, our Holsteins averaged 8,000 pounds of milk per year, which is only 26 pounds per day. Now the average is 19,000+, at least 62 pounds of milk per cow per day.

Does this not suggest a change from the Volkswagen to the Cadillac model? And you might point out correctly that we earned this higher performance by becoming better feed providers and nutritionists, even computer ration balancers. Yes and no.

While this is a phenomenal US milk production success story genetically, and nutritionally to some extent, the average age of our dairy cows and their longevity has generally declined, their reproductive performance has not improved and the age that our heifers first calve has not improved. Even mastitis is still around as the number one drain on the dairyman's pocketbook.

While we have learned to feed with the aid of computers, we have not yet consciously changed our thinking of our cows as Cadillacs rather than Volkswagens, nor have we given serious thought to their different octane needs in their gas tanks!

We are just beginning to look at peak production levels rather than average lactation levels. When we compare our 1957 lactation averages of 26 pounds of milk per cow with the 1989 averages of 62 pounds, we recognize a higher demand on our new cow models to perform that much better. However, these new cow models do it by reaching peak levels in their lactation curve of much more than 62 pounds of milk; the average peaks are 83 pounds of milk per day. And this is going higher every year.

In 1988, the Delaware DHIA had 10 percent of their herds averaging 20,000 pounds of milk per cow per year, and more. This means 87 pounds peak milk for 20,000 pound cows, 90 pound peaks for 21,000 pound cows and 94 pound peaks for 22,000 pound cows! Certainly these are Cadillac models deserving high-octane feed!

But how do we do this? Most dairymen acknowledge that cows at peak levels lose body weight, that is, they are doing it despite our inefficiency and insufficiency in proper feeding — at least for awhile, out of their "own hide" instead.

So, how can we do better? The primary lack in feed content is usually energy, and it is the first limiting nutrient causing weight loss and the dropping from peak levels. Increasing energy contents of cow rations is not easy because using more grain (more starch) leads sooner or later to rumen upsets, intake refusals and milkfat declines.

Instead of using starch, energy "octane" rating of feed can be increased by using fat which has twice the calorie content per weight unit. Fat is available as a dairy cow feed supplement in several forms, including sprayed-on pelleted feed, dry fat to be mixed in, calcium soaps of fats to reduce rumen problems and whole oil seeds such as cottonseed, soybeans and sunflower.

Some fats cause problems to cows. Saturated tallow at five percent of the diet can cause milk fat depression, rumen upsets, and other problems.

Vegetable oils are more detrimental to rumen microbes than saturated homogenized animal fats at equal levels; however, oilseeds have no undesirable effects if fed at moderate levels, probably because of the slow fat release from oil seeds. Cottonseed at 4-6 pounds per cow per day is not only a high energy source for cows, but also provides additional critically needed fiber and protein (if free of mold!). Even higher levels have been fed. The same is true for soybeans, especially good if roasted, and even sunflowers, if the price is more competitive.

Since increased fats in the diet tie up calcium, cow rations must have increased contents, to a minimum of .9 percent, to better meet the high-performance cow's needs. The supply of other minerals and vitamins affected by all this must also be revised in order to provide high-octane diets to high-performance cows.

Dietary fat has been too long avoided as a way to get more energy into cows per volume feed. Where source of fat is carefully selected, adjustment of rumen microbes is done slowly over several weeks, and if costs are calculated carefully and other ration ingredients and frequency of feeding are revised, then a more appropriate high-octane feeding of our Cadillac-model cows will yield more profits on the dairy farm.

Most Mix-All owners will never buy another.

In fact, you'd probably have a hard time convincing Gehl Mix-All® owners to even look at anything else. And why should they?

The Mix-All's big 21-inch wide hammermill features 66 reversible thin hammers that cut, rather than pound the feed to deliver a more consistent grind and ensure uniform mixing for a better feed conversion rate.

Gehl's self-contained hydraulic system is designed-in, not added on. It provides the precision of infinitely variable in-feed attachment control to match tractor power for greater grinding capacity. Plus you get fast, smooth, trouble-free unloading with greater reliability.

And a wide variety of options and attachments lets you customize your Mix-All to fit any operation.

PURINA CALF STARTENA

Jim and Nina Burdette own and manage a registered Holstein herd in Mercersburg, Pa. located in Franklin County. They have been milking for 15 yrs. and have had tremendous success in the show ring as well as on the farm. They have always used CALF STARTENA in their calf program. We wish them continued success. Here's how they feel about PURINA'S CALF STARTENA.

"Purina Calf Startena is a consistent starter that helps maximize a calf's potential. This calf is a potential 5th generation homebred excellent and all of them were fed PURINA CALF STARTENA."

Jim & Nina Burdette

HERE IS WHY STARTENA SHOULD BE YOUR FIRST CHOICE:

- Calves grow up to 15% faster the 1st 60 days compared to conventional starters.
- Saves feed, 12% better feed efficiency compared to conventional starters.
- Promotes early rumen development that hay can't the first 60 days.
- Highly palatable, calves like it, easy to digest, so they gain more.
- Now available with DECCOX™ or Terramycin.
